U.S. ANNOUNCES PARTNERSHIP WITH INDIA ON SEMICONDUCTORS

The US announced on Monday it is entering into a partnership with India's Semiconductor Mission launched by the Centre in 2022

TO GROW AND DIVERSIFY GLOBAL CHIP INDUSTRY

The two countries will work together to boost the growth and diversification of the global semiconductor ecosystem amid increasing reliance on chips and concerns over the resilience of their supply chains. As a first step, a detailed assessment of India's existing semiconductor ecosystem will be done that will form the basis for future joint initiatives, the US State Department said

PARTNERSHIP UNDER BIDEN'S CHIPS ACT 2022

- The partnership will come under the International Technology Security and Innovation (ITSI) Fund created through the CHIPS Act of 2022 — an initiative of President Joe Biden's administration
- One of the aims of the CHIPS Act is to diversify the semiconductor supply chain to minimise the risk of large-scale disruptions

Protesting junior doctors of RG Kar watch the live proceedings of the Supreme Court hearing on the rape-murder of a trainee doctor, in Kolkata on Monday | PTI

THE Supreme Court on Monday gave the protesting junior doctors in West Bengal 24 hours to join work, failing which they will not get any judicial protection. "Protest cannot be at the cost of duty," a bench headed by Chief Justice D Y Chandrachud observed. It directed them to get back to work by 5 pm on Tuesday and assured that there will be no adverse action if they resume duty.

The junior doctors have been on protest since August 9, demanding justice for the rape-murder of a trainee doctor at the RG Kar Medical College and Hospital in Kolkata.

The direction came after West Bengal's counsel said 23 people have died in the state due to the mass abstention of resident doctors.

The court noted that funds have been sanctioned by the state government for setting up additional CCTV cameras and for the safety of doctors. It also directed the state government to coordinate with the CISF — tasked with providing security at RG Kar — for giving them suitable accommodation and providing security gadgets to its personnel.

But the junior doctors in West Bengal said they will continue their ceasework since they do not feel secure enough in their places of work.

The court also expressed serious concern over the absence of a challan, a key document for postmortem of the victim and sought a report from the West Bengal government. "Where is the challan of the body when it was handed over for postmortem?" it asked.

After examining the CBI's status report on the probe, the bench said, it is pursuing a few leads. "There was at least 14 hours delay in registration of the FIR on the rape-murder incident by the Kolkata Police. Two things are known — the time when the victim went to seminar hall to rest, and the movement around that room after that," the bench said and asked the CBI to file its next status report by September 16.

The court also directed the immediate removal of photographs of the victim from all social media platforms. P10

New GoM on insurance premium GST

MONIKA YADAV @ New Delhi

AMID calls for a reduction in the tax rate on health and life insurance premiums, the GST Council meeting on Monday decided to form a Group of Ministers (GoM) to deliberate on the issue. The GoM will submit its report next month and the Council will take a call on this in its upcoming meet in November.

Monday's GST Council meeting, chaired by Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman, took several key decisions. The Council also recommended the formation of a separate GoM to study the future of compensation cess. By January 2026, the Centre is expected to clear back-to-back loan payments to states related to GST compensation, with total cess collections projected to reach ₹8.66 lakh crore and an estimated surplus of ₹40,000 crore after repayments, the FM said.

The Council also exempted supply of research and development services by a government entity, university, college or other institutions notified under Section 35 of the Income Tax Act. It may be recalled that IIT Delhi had got a show cause notice from the Directorate General of GST Intelligence over ₹120 crore.

"GST exemption on public & private research grants to higher education institutions is a major boost that shall not only increase research outcome but also achieve global tax parity. Indian academia is hugely relieved," said S Vaidhyasubramaniam, Vice-Chancellor of SASTRA University, which is among the institutions that had received show cause notice.

MAJOR DECISIONS

GoM to look into GST on life insurance and health insurance

GST on cancer drugs cut from 12% to 5%

GST on helicopter services on seat-share basis cut to 5% from 18%; chartered services to attract 18%

No decision on plan to levy 18% GST on small transactions below ₹2,000

1st Indian mpox case tests +ve, govt issues advisory

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @Delhi

THE Centre on Monday wrote to all states and Union Territories (UTs) asking them to screen, test, and trace contacts of all suspected mpox patients.

It comes after India reported its first mpox case — after the latest WHO alert — in a man who arrived from a country experiencing mpox transmission. However, lab tests showed the man is infected with the older clade 2 strain of the virus, and not the deadlier and faster-spreading clade 1b that has led to a surge in cases worldwide and prompted the WHO to declare a public health emergency.

Union health secretary Apurva Chandra, in a letter to all the states and UTs, asked them to identify isolation units in hospitals for both suspected and confirmed cases. They must also review public health preparedness, particularly at the health facility level. He said sexual contact is the most commonly reported way of transmission, followed by person-to-person non-sexual contact. "Among cases where at least one symptom is reported, the most common symptom is rash, followed by fever," he wrote adding most cases are young males with a median age of 34. The states and UTs must spread awareness about the disease and prevent any undue panic.

Chandra said health units at points of entry (airports) have been instructed to strengthen the health screening of travellers. Regarding the confirmed case, the Union health ministry said, "This case is isolated, similar to the earlier 30 cases reported in India from July 2022 onwards". The patient is isolated and is stable, it added.

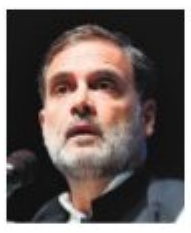
"The good news is that the strain of concern, clade 1b, is yet to be detected in India. Clade 1b was the strain for which WHO declared a public health emergency. That was because it was relatively new, originating from a different part of Africa than clade 2, was spreading faster, and was more severe," Dr Rajeev Jayadevan, former president of the Indian Medical Association, Cochin said.

BJP, RSS believe women must be at home: Rahul

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

IN his first trip to the US after assuming the role of Leader of the Opposition in the Lok Sabha, Rahul Gandhi launched a scathing attack on the BJP and the RSS on Monday calling them downright patriarchal.

Interacting with students at the University of Texas, the Congress leader said: "The BJP and RSS believe that women should be restricted to a particular role… that they should stay at home, cook food, and not talk too much. But we (Congress) believe that women should be allowed to aspire to whatever they want to do."



He also observed that the RSS believes India is one idea, while the Congress considers it a multiplicity of ideas.

Rahul Gandhi's three-day visit comes ahead of the US presidential elections in November.

Addressing the Indian diaspora in Dallas, he claimed that the 'fear of BJP' disappeared immediately after the 2024 Lok Sabha election results came out. "Within minutes of the election result, nobody was scared of the BJP and the Prime Minister of India. These are huge achievements, not of Rahul Gandhi or Congress, but of the people of India who realised we are not going to accept an attack on the Constitution," he said.

He added that everyone, regardless of caste, language, or religion, should have the freedom to express themselves. "This is the fight and this fight was crystallised during the elections when millions of Indians realised that the prime minister was attacking the Constitution," he said.

Waking up to shrieking alarm? It may shoot up your BP

RISHITA KHANNA @ Bengaluru

WAKING up to the sound of an alarm clock in the morning can cause a significant surge in blood pressure, with a 74% increase compared to those who wake up naturally, according to a recent study by UVA Health.

This abrupt awakening, driven by alarms, can trigger a "morning blood pressure surge," a routine rise in blood pressure that occurs naturally but is significantly heightened by sudden wake-ups, the study stated.

This spike in blood pressure puts stress on the heart and veins, potentially activating the "fight or flight" response, which forces the heart to work harder and can lead to fatigue, breathing trouble and other symptoms.

The study, conducted by a nursing student for the University of Virginia Health System, which conducts monthly surveys, warns that this heightened blood pressure surge could lead to serious heart issues, including heart attacks or strokes.

The effects are even more pronounced among individuals, who already have heart conditions, as the additional stress from an abrupt wake-up can escalate into a severe health emergency.

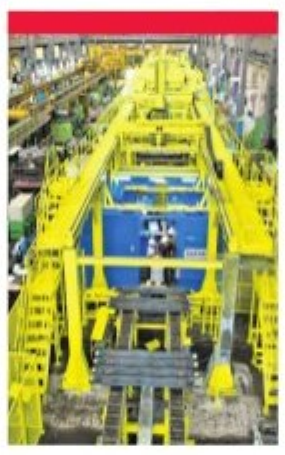
TWO CORRIDORS OF SUBURBAN RAIL TO OPEN BY DECEMBER 2026

Project could be extended to neighbouring towns; Connecting it to Circular Rail Network discussed

RWF TO FULLY STOP RELYING ON BWSSB

Bengaluru: The Rail Wheel Factory will be setting up a mega Water Softening Plant within its premises which will augment the present one which is much smaller, General Manager of RWF R Rajagopal told TNIE. "It will help remove the scales and hard salts present in the cooling water used in RWF and soften it," he said. The RWF presently makes use of 1.93 lakh litres of water in its wheel and axle factories of which 1.92 lakh litres is self-generated by its STPs. "We take only 10,000 litres of water from the BWSSB. When the Water Softening Plant is set up, we will be able to fully meet our water demand and will not have to use any water from the water supply board," he added. The water generated by the STP is being sent to the Kendriya Vidyalaya within its premises to be used for flushing toilets, he added. "We started the initiative on September 5. If it works out well, we will expand it in other spheres," the GM said.



3RD AXLE MACHINING LINE FOR RWF IN THREE MONTHS

Bengaluru: Minister of State for Railways V Somanna on Monday announced that the Third Axle Machining Line for the Rail Wheel Factory, which will boost productivity is set to open in three months. Yelahanka-based RWF is a leading supplier of wheels and axles for Indian Railways. He said the Third Axle Machining Line is nearing commissioning and will enhance RWF's capacity by 42,000 axles annually. "The line will supply axles to additional wagons to be incorporated into Indian Railways to transport the 3,000 tonnes of freight by rail which is the target set under the PM's Gati Shakti Mission," said Chief Public Relations Officer G Venkatesh. The present share of Railways in transporting freight is between 14% and 15% and the objective is to steer it much higher, he added.

Karnataka Industries Minister MB Patil and Minister of State for Railways V Somanna at a press conference in Bengaluru on Monday | NAGARAJA GADEKAL

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

UNION Minister of State for Railways V Somanna and Karnataka Industries Minister MB Patil jointly announced the partial opening of the 148-km Bengaluru Suburban Rail Project (BSRP) by December 2026, on Monday.

Of the four corridors of the Rs 15,767-crore project, two corridors -- the 25.01km Chikkabanavara-Baiyappanahalli line (Corridor-2) and Heelalige -Rajanukunte line (Corridor-4) -- will be opened. The possibility of connecting BSRP with the proposed 287-km Circular Rail Network project was also discussed. Briefing the media after a progress review meet with Rail Infrastructure Development Company Karnataka (K-Ride), the nodal agency for BSRP, the minister said officials have requested three months' time to resolve land acquisition issues and have been instructed to adhere to the deadline.

The announcement pushes the 40-month deadline for completion of the BSRP announced by PM Narendra Modi, when he laid the foundation in June 2022, with October 2025 as the deadline. The ministers emphasised that these two corridors will be completed within the deadline set by Modi. Somanna said, "After this, implementation of the other two corridor projects will be discussed."

Patil stressed the lack of bidders for tenders issued by K-Ride for supply of coaches for the suburban project. Somanna assured him that a meeting would be arranged with Railway Minister Ashwini Vaishnaw in Delhi to readdress the issue.

Connecting the suburban network with the proposed 287-km Peripheral (Circular) Network being planned at a cost of Rs 23,000 crore was also discussed. The network will connect Vaddarahalli, Devanahalli, Malur, Heelalige, Hejjala and Solur, and the Detailed Project Report is getting ready. Patil also requested extension of the suburban rail network to neighbouring cities and towns.

The feasibility of extending Corridor-1 of the Suburban Rail network directly to Kolar from Devanahalli, rather than through Chikkaballapur, was also discussed, said an official release.

Aravind Srivastava, General Manager of South Western Railway, Maheshwara Rao, BMRCL MD, Tushar Girinath, Chief Commissioner of BBMP, and N Manjula, MD of K-ride were present.

MB Patil calls for track doubling of two stretches

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

INFRASTRUCTURE Development Minister MB Patil on Monday called for doubling of rail tracks to be undertaken between two stretches -- Bengaluru and Mangaluru, and Hubballi and Dharwad. In a separate development, the Centre announced a second Vande Bharat Express between Hubballi and Pune.

In a review meet held with Minister of State for Railways V Somanna at Vidhana Soudha to track the progress of railway projects across Karnataka, Patil said, "The absence of a double track between Bengaluru and Mangaluru has hindered industrial growth in the region."

He also called for a new railway project connecting Chitradurga with Vijayapura via Hosapete, Koppal and Almatti. "With minor modifications, the current travel time of 14 hours between Bengaluru and Vijayapura could be reduced to 10 hours," the minister added.

"If the Hubballi-Ankola railway project becomes a reality, it would significantly boost industrial development in North Karnataka," Patil said, adding that a tunnel track between Sakleshpur and Subramanya was required. Somanna stated that the Prime Minister would soon launch 10 new Vande Bharat trains, including one for Karnataka, though the route for the Vande Bharat within the state was not yet finalised, Patil said in a post on X.

Second Hubballi-Pune VB

Union Minister for Consumer Affairs, Food and Public Distribution and Dharwad MP Pralhad Joshi announced a new Vande Bharat Express between Hubballi and Pune. In a post on X on Monday night, he said he had submitted a written request to Railway Minister Ashwini Vaishnaw and Minister of State for Railways V Somanna for the same.

Somanna bridges gap between state, Centre

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @Bengaluru:

UNION Minister of State for Railways and Jal Shakti V Somanna is getting accolades for working as a bridge between Congress-ruled Karnataka and the NDA government at the Centre.

On Monday, Minister for Industries and Infrastructure MB Patil was all praise for the Tumakuru MP's style of functioning. The duo held an important meeting on railway projects, including suburban rail projects in progress in the state, and for which Patil expressed his gratitude to Somanna for his cooperation.

In turn, Somanna thanked Patil and the Congress government for releasing and allocating adequate grants towards suburban rail projects. "When the project is completed by December 2026, it will set an example of how a state and Central government should work in coordination," Somanna remarked.

He also visited the Rail Wheel Factory where Vande Bharat sleeper coaches are being manufactured, and will be in operation in a month or two. His visit boosted the morale of officers and employees.

As Tumakuru MP, Somanna got funds granted for five railway overbridge projects which were pending, despite being commissioned in the past. He managed to fulfil the demands of commuters with the announcement of a new MEMU train between Tumakuru and Bengaluru, remarked Karanam Ramesh, Commuters' Forum president. Passengers are also excited as the Dharwad-Bengaluru Vande Bharat now stops at Tumakuru station because of Somanna's initiative, he added.

A modern railway station will be developed on the model of Siddaganga Mutt's iconic Sanskrit College, and is likely to be named after Sri Shivakumara Swamiji, the legendary saint who lived for 111 years.

'BJP, JDS will oppose Greater B'luru Bill, shouldn't divide city'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

OPPOSITION leader R Ashoka said Bengaluru, built by Nadaprabhu Kempegowda, should not be divided and Kannadigas have a right over the city. The state government's decision to divide Bengaluru has run into opposition.

He was addressing a session organised by the state government to discuss the pros and cons of the Greater Bangalore Authority (GBA) Bill. "Bengaluru should not be divided and should remain like this. Kannadigas are supreme here and it should remain so. A Kannadiga should be the mayor," he said, adding that BJP and JDS will oppose the division of Bengaluru.

The Slum Board, Water Board and Bangalore Metropolitan Transport Corporation (BMTC) are independent bodies, and the government is trying to bring it under the purview of GBA. "If all these are brought together and managed by GBA through IAS officers, it will be a big violation," Ashoka argued.

This Bill will weaken the authorities, boards and corporations. Before taking any decision about the Bill, there should be some amendments. If there is any delay in making amendments and increasing wards, the state government should at least hold elections to 198 wards, the BJP leader noted.

"Let Bengaluru city have one Mayor. There is no problem whether his/her term of office is fixed for two-and-half years or five years," Ashoka stated.

He added that urban expert and Bengaluru Restructuring Committee member V Ravichandar made it clear that 80% of the report given by experts was not adopted in the Bill. "Efforts will be made to convince the government to fix loopholes. If they don't agree, we will protest," said Ashoka.

He explained that a committee of leaders would be formed to study the Bill in detail and report on the changes.

Agreeing with Ashoka, former minister and MLA K Gopalaiah said the GBA will undermine BBMP. A concept like GBA has failed in other cosmopolitan cities in India. It will be a violation to touch the taxes meant for the municipality, which is an elected body. "The government has delayed the election to the BBMP Council for the past few years, and wants to delay it further. Hence, they are pushing the GBA," he alleged.

When contacted, urban expert V Ravichandar said it is the prerogative of the government to decide on the Bill and there is no compulsion to accept the committee's suggestion.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

10TH September: Balance and harmony are everything. It benefits all of us to listen to friends' and colleagues' opinions. Today's celestial message requires us to work for agreement in all professional and personal affairs, looking for the path of greatest agreement and the best possible compromise.

ARIES
(Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
You won't be alone in deciding that friends and colleagues are just being too much trouble. One minute they're all over you, the next it's all over! Neither at home nor at work will you be free from such capricious people. And, if children, friends or lovers want most of the attention, you'd better let them have it!

TAURUS
(Apr. 21 - May 21)
The time may not yet have come for decisive action at home. In any event, there is so much potential for misunderstanding this week that you might be well advised to stick to uncontroversial matters, difficult as this restriction may be to observe. Really, you need to make up your own rules.

GEMINI
(May 22 - June 21)
Bearing in mind that you are passing through a phase of existence that must be described as favourable, you may survive a financial crisis intact. However, you should insure yourself by taking every possible precaution. After all, a good gambler always calculates the odds well in advance.

CANCER
(June 22 - July 23)
It is now time to start holding peace talks. Even if friends and colleagues are still behaving irrationally, you must make every effort to pour oil on troubled waters and distinguish fact from fantasy. And, as an added aside, don't let anyone over-charge you.

LEO
(July 24 - Aug. 23)
What you need now is a bolt-hole, somewhere to hide from the attacks and criticisms that seem to be heading in your direction. One of your fears is that personal friction will disrupt your working life. Perhaps you're just a little too thin-skinned today.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
The strongest planet of the moment is Venus, which is currently indicating emotional turmoil. This is not an easy time for you practical Virgoans, but it is certainly easier than last week, and I suspect that you will handle partners' demands better than most people.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Obstinacy doesn't suit you. It never did, and it certainly doesn't now. According to an old Chinese saying, the branch which does not bend in the wind will break. Right now, you are that branch, so it is vital that you adopt a totally pragmatic and flexible approach.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Your planetary pictures are so contradictory that it is honestly impos-sible to say whether this is a good moment for you to travel or not. Much depends on how you handle your personal relationships. I should think that it's time to tie up loose ends.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Around this time of year, when the Sun is beginning to pass through materialistic regions of your chart, you are forced to pay more attention to other people's needs. The sense in such an approach will become clear if you consider the financial consequences of a personal rift.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
You do tend to feel over-dependent on people around you, and the determination of others to exploit your discomfort may make you feel rather uneasy about the future. Yet, if you are to be entirely truthful, you must see just how far you are responsible for the current situation.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
Very little in astrology is subject to fate, or to circumstances we can't influence. Difficult planetary aspects are not bound to bring personal disputes to the fore, but this may be precisely the result you get unless you take the initiative and try to force everyone to co-operate.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
It is said of the Piscean that he, or she, finds it almost impossible not to share in other people's unhappiness. Yet you know that, at times like these, it is so much more helpful if you attempt to soothe their ruffled feathers. Bring a smile to a partner's lips.

Actor admitted to assaulting victim; Pradosh took Rs 30L to 'handle matter': Chargesheet

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE chargesheet in the Renukaswamy murder case reveals that actor Darshan Thogudeepa told the investigators that he assaulted the victim, but Renukaswamy was fine when he left a shed in Pattanagere in RR Nagar, where the victim was allegedly confined and assaulted.

Darshan told the police that he was at his RR Nagar residence when co-accused Pradosh came there around 7.30 pm on June 8 and informed him about Renukaswamy's death.

Darshan stated that Pradosh, Vinay, Nagaraj and Lakshman came to his house at 9 pm. Pradosh took Rs 30 lakh from him, saying he would handle the matter. Later, Pradosh returned and took another Rs 10 lakh. A day after Renukaswamy's murder, Darshan left for a shoot in Mysuru. At 9 pm on June 10, Pradosh, Nagaraj and Vinay went to the hotel where Darshan was staying and said Nandish had strangled Renukaswamy, Dhanraj gave him electric shocks and Pavan assaulted the victim.

The police took Darshan into custody from his hotel room in Mysuru on June 11.

The actor's close acquaintance Pavithra Gowda told investigators that she came in contact with Darshan when she had gone for a film audition. She got his number and became close to him.

She stated that Darshan gifted her a three-storeyed residential building, worth Rs 1.75 crore in RR Nagar, in 2018. The two were in a live-in relationship for the last 10 years. "I was aware that Darshan was married and had a son. I had stopped talking to Darshan since May 2024 after he went to Dubai with Vijayalakshmi to celebrate their wedding anniversary without telling me. Then I started getting lewd messages on Instagram from an ID, Gowtham. Pawan was aware of these messages and informed Darshan," she told the police.

On the assault on Renukaswamy, she stated that Darshan took her to the shed and showed her the victim. After sometime, she was dropped back home and she did not know what happened to Renukaswamy, she told the police. Meanwhile, the judicial custody of the accused has been extended till September 12.

Attempt to kidnap 7-year-old girl foiled

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

A group of youths foiled the kidnap attempt of a seven-year-old girl at Chamundipura Layout in Ramanagara on Sunday night. The youths not only foiled the attempt, they also chased and nabbed the accused, and handed him over to the police. The accused, addicted to drugs, did not have money to buy drugs. He was reportedly asking for money from the locals to buy cigarettes. He hatched the kidnap plot so that he could buy a good amount of drugs from the ransom.

The accused has been identified as Darshan, 22. The victim, who is his neighbour was standing alone near a Ganesha pandal. The accused took her to an isolated place, and gagged her with duct tape. He also tied her hands and locked her inside a cement godown. The victim's father, Santosh who came near the pandal panicked after not finding his daughter. He also alerted the youths who were near the pandal to help him. After hiding the girl in the godown, Darshan returned near the pandal and told the youths that he had seen her standing alone. The locals, who knew Darshan's addiction to drugs suspected him and started questioning. He then led them to the godown where the girl was present, after which she was rescued. The accused tried to escape from the spot, but he was chased and nabbed.

The accused had hatched a plot to demand Rs two lakh ransom to release her. But he ran out of luck and was caught.

The Ijoor police of the Ramanagara district have registered a case and are further investigating.

13-year-old student electrocuted while visiting Ganesha pandal

Bengaluru: A 13-year-old student died after being electrocuted while visiting the Ganesha pandal installed in Konaghatta village on the outskirts of the city. The Doddaballapur rural police registered a case. The deceased has been identified as Chetana, a sixth standard student, a resident of Konaghatta village. The police said that on Sunday, Chetana went to see the Ganesha idol that was installed near her house. During the visit, the small light-set used for decoration fell on the girl, electrocuting her. The local residents rushed her to a nearby hospital, and she was later transferred to another hospital for treatment, but she succumbed to her injuries on Monday, the officer said. The police had issued guidelines regarding safety precautions during the installation of Ganesha idols. Legal action will be taken against those who violate the rules, he said.

Man arrested for killing brother-in-law

Bengaluru: A 45-year-old Second Division Assistant (SDA), who had been suffering from depression for a few days, allegedly killed his brother-in-law over a family dispute on Sunday night. The incident took place at his residence in Hosaguddadahalli in Byatarayanapura police limits. Police arrested the accused. The deceased was identified as Venkatachalapathi (45), and the accused, Vishwanath, is a resident of Hosaguddadahalli. He is an SDA at the sub-registrar office in Malleswaram. Police said Vishawanth's sister and brother-in-law had visited him around 9pm Sunday as he was suffering from depression. During the visit, there was an argument between Vishwanath and Venkatachalapathi over a family dispute, and the former allegedly stabbed the latter multiple times with a kitchen knife in the presence of his sister. As she started screaming, neighbours rushed to their house and alerted police.

BJP leader accused of sexual harassment

ENS @ Bengaluru

A woman has filed a sexual harassment complaint against the president of Channapatana Rural BJP mandal at Akkur police station in Ramanagara. The BJP leader, TS Raju of Thubinakere, was suspended from the party.

The incident is said to have occurred during the Ganesha idol immersion procession on Saturday night. When the victim was standing outside her house, Raju allegedly touched her inappropriately and called her 'baby'. He also allegedly took her pictures on his mobile phone. The victim went inside the house and informed her brother. Her family confronted Raju and snatched his phone.

The complaint was registered against Raju on Sunday. The incident occurred when the victim, who stays in Bengaluru, had gone to her village for the Ganesha festival.

As the procession was passing near her house around 11.40 pm on Saturday, Raju saw her standing alone and allegedly made some lewd comments. He also allegedly put his hands around her shoulder. The woman told the police that Raju had earlier called her on the phone asking her to come alone to Mysuru for coffee.

KANNADA YOUTUBER HELD FOR THREATENING RIVAL

A Kannada motovlogger and YouTuber, Deepak aka DV Kannada, was arrested by the Kadugodi police on charges threatening another YouTuber on social media. He had allegedly threatened his competitor on the internet, and taking cognisance of the same, he was arrested, police said. The YouTuber had recorded a video and posted it on social media from other account which went viral on social media. The police had taken up a case. The police said that Deepak had a spat on social media with another YouTuber based in Mysuru, who had posted a comment that was in bad taste. In reply, Deepak had posted a video claiming 'No one who is a bigger rowdy than him in Bengaluru' and used abusive language in the video. The police had taken him to preventive custody and released him after undertaking a bond. ENS

Accused funded by handlers with crypto currencies

INVESTIGATIONS revealed that Shazib planted the bomb at the cafe. He and Taaha had been absconding since 2020 after the Al-Hind module was busted. Extensive searches by NIA led to their arrest in West Bengal, 42 days after the cafe blast, the agency stated in a press release.

Shazib and Taaha, who hail from Shivamogga district, were ISIS radicals and had planned to move to ISIS territories in Syria. They were actively involved in radicalising gullible Muslim youth. Ahmed and Shareef were among such youth, the release said.

"Taaha and Shazib used fraudulently obtained Indian SIM cards and Indian bank accounts, besides various Indian and Bangladeshi identity documents downloaded from the Dark Web. Taaha was introduced by an ex-convict, Shoaib Ahmed Mirza, to Mohammed Shaheed Faisal, an absconder in the Lashkar-e-Taiba's (LeT) Bengaluru conspiracy case. Taaha then introduced Faisal, his handler, to Mehaboob Pasha, an accused in the Al-Hind ISIS module case, and to Khaja Mohideen, Amir of ISIS South India, and later to Ahmed," the release said.

"Taaha and Shazib were funded by their handler through crypto currencies, which Taaha converted to Fiat with the help of Telegram-based P2P platforms. The funds were used by the accused to perpetrate various acts of violence in Bengaluru, including a failed IED attack at the state BJP office in Malleswaram on the day of 'Pran Pratishtha' ceremony in Ayodhya (January 22). After this, the two key accused planned the cafe blast," the release said.

Leader of Opposition in the Assembly R Ashoka on Monday "cautioned" DCM DK Shivakumar to be careful, saying that in the Congress, those who lead the party do not become chief minister. Sharing this on social media, Ashoka said, "In the Congress, those who lift palanquin are different, those who are the idols taken in procession are different."

RAYAREDDY THROWS IN HIS HAT FOR CM'S CHAIR

But says Siddu will continue in the post for the remainder of 3.5-yr term

RAGHOTTAM KOPPAR @ Koppal

AS change in leadership in the Congress government continues to be an issue, another aspirant for the chief minister's chair, Basavaraj Rayareddy -- who is the economic adviser to Chief Minister Siddaramaiah -- muddied the field further by throwing in his hat on Monday.

But he countered himself by pointing out that the chief minister's chair is not vacant and Siddaramaiah will continue to be CM for the entire tenure. The senior Congress leader said, "I am also a frontrunner for the chief minister's post if any leader from Kalyana-Karnataka or the Lingayat community gets a chance." He added to the confusion, saying, "Anyone whom Siddaramaiah refers to the post will become chief minister. If he blesses me, I will also become chief minister. Of course, many leaders are aspiring to be chief minister and there is nothing wrong in it." Rayareddy told reporters, "I am a senior Lingayat leader and have been elected MLA many times. I have all the eligibility to become chief minister. If the Lingayat community gets an opportunity, let them give me a chance."

Asked whether he is on Siddaramaiah's side, Rayareddy, one of the influential leaders from the Kalyana-Karnataka region, said Siddaramaih has been a good chief minister and has carried out many developmental works. "I am in favour of Siddaramaiah completing the full five-year term," he added. "Siddaramaiah will be chief minister for another three-and-a-half years. He should not resign even if the court allows an investigation (into the MUDA site allotment issue). I am sure he will continue to be chief minister for the full term. The State will benefit from him. I bat for his continuation as CM," he asserted. If there is a change in leadership, he said, Siddaramaiah himself will put forth a name, be it from the Vokkaliga or Lingyat community, as there are a lot of experienced and able leaders in the party to ascend to the chief minister's chair.

Patil on GIM mission to Delhi, but may drop by high command?

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

LARGE and Medium Industries Minister MB Patil departed to New Delhi on Monday to meet ambassadors and industrial organisations of various countries and to participate in the scheduled roadshow in view of the Global Investors Meet (GIM), which will be held in Bengaluru from February 12-14, 2025. However, speculation was rife that he would meet Congress high command Congress high command since he is in the race for the CM's post should the situation arise.

"Patil is as close to the party high command as are Chief Minister Siddaramaiah and Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar, as he has helped the party during difficult times," remarked a Congress functionary. He is also on good terms with AICC president Mallikarjun Kharge and may meet him during his visit.

Tagging a private TV channel's clip that broke the news about Patil's visit to New Delhi as intriguing, BJP taunted Congress, saying the Grand Old Party is all set to make Siddaramaiah step down forcibly for his alleged involvement in the MUDA scam.

Patil is also close to Siddaramaiah, and they both, along with Home Minister Dr G Parameshwara, recently travelled in the same car for the inauguration of the Yettinahole project in Sakleshpur.

A couple of days ago, Patil's rival within the Congress, and his cabinet colleague Shivanand Patil had stated that there are many seniors than the industries minister within Congress to become CM.

Meanwhile, former Bengaluru Rural MP DK Suresh, younger brother of Shivakumar, on Monday said Siddaramaiah will be the chief minister for five years.

But Leader of Opposition in the Assembly R Ashoka told reporters that the leaders within Congress are trying to backstab Siddaramaiah.

Meanwhile, MB Patil will be participating in various activities on September 10 and 11 in New Delhi. On Tuesday, he will meet Union Heavy Industries and Steel Minister HD Kumaraswamy, followed by a meeting with Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman, a release from his office stated. Patil will also call on the High Commissioner of Singapore, German Ambassador, and representatives of the US Chamber of Commerce and Indo-American Business Council, among others. He will participate in a roadshow organised as part of the CII Global Investors' Conference.

Guv had to order preliminary probe: AG to HC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

Governor Thaawarchand Gehlot is a competent authority, but not a preliminary inquiry officer, to give sanction to prosecute Chief Minister Siddaramaiah even before conducting a preliminary inquiry over the alleged illegal allotment of 14 compensatory sites to his wife Parvathy BM by the Mysuru Urban Development Authority (MUDA), argued Advocate General K Shashikiran Shetty before the Karnataka High Court on Monday.

Arguing on behalf of the state government before Justice M Nagaprasanna, who is hearing a petition filed by Siddaramaiah challenging the governor's sanction, Shetty submitted that the governor should have restrained from exercising his discretionary powers under Article 163 and referred the complaint to an investigating agency to conduct a preliminary investigation before granting sanction. If the preliminary investigation found any prima facie case, then the probe report should have been considered along with the complaint filed to grant sanction as required under Section 17A of the Prevention of Corruption Act, he said.

He contended that the governor had to seek an investigation report after perusing the complaint, instead of issuing a show-cause notice to the chief minister. This procedure is as per the judgments of the high court, the supreme court in Lalit Kumar's case and the Standard Operating Procedure (SOP) issued by the central government. But it was not followed and the governor's action defeats the very purpose of Section 17A. The impugned sanction order has to go, he argued.

The court orally observed that if the investigation is already done before granting sanction, then what approval is to be given. "You are trying to blow hot and cold. If your submission is accepted, even after following Section 17A, the same thing will happen as what was done only by the impugned order," the court told the AG.

Going by the judgments in the Ashoka case by the high court and the SOP, the governor is a competent authority and not a preliminary inquiry officer. He has to act as per the aid and advice of the council of ministers. The reasons for sanctioning should be in the order and on the file of the case, Shetty told the court.

Senior advocate Lakshmi Iyengar, arguing for complainant Snehamayi Krishna, said that when denotification, conversion of land and distribution of compensatory sites were done, Siddaramaiah was in power as deputy chief minister or chief minister or MLA, from 2004 to 2022. She alleged that the sites were registered in Parvathy's name at the Government Guest House in Mysuru and she did not go to the sub-registrar's office which is mandatory. Every single transaction has been done at the behest of the CM, she argued.

Further hearing in the case was adjourned to September 12 for submission by senior advocate Abhishek Manu Singhvi on behalf of the chief minister.

Centre yet to release funds to improve tourism: Min

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

KARNATAKA Tourism Minister HK Patil on Monday claimed that funds allocated to Karnataka in the Union budget for improving tourism facilities under various schemes, were not yet released.

Patil said the Central government is yet to release Rs 45.17 crore as the first instalment under the 'Prasad' scheme for the development of Chamundi Hills in Mysuru.

Neither had the Centre released the sanctioned amount of Rs 46.17 crore under the 'Swadesi Darshan 2.0' scheme for programmes in Mysuru and Hampi. He was speaking at a meeting held by Union Tourism Minister Gajendra Singh Shekhawat, with tourism ministers of southern states and Union Territories in Bengaluru on Monday.

On Karnataka's position in the tourism sector, he said the state had made a demand to Unesco to include the Deccan Sultanate forts, Aihole and Badami sculptures, and megalithic site of Hirebenakal and Lakkundi in its heritage list. He said tourism is at its peak in Karnataka, and projects have been undertaken under public-private partnership, and Central government funds are needed to enhance them. Such delays hinder the completion of projects within the stipulated time, which puts the state government in a quandary in creating a safe environment for development and tourism.

The meeting included a discussion on resuming operations of the state's first luxury express, Golden Chariot. Patil pointed to the Railway Ministry's demands on charges and changes to be made to the Golden Chariot tour policy, besides reducing haulage charge to make it affordable for tourists.

Joshi says state not willing to buy rice from Centre for Anna Bhagya

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

THE 16-month rice crisis between the state and the central governments has taken a dramatic turn. After enduring months of public embarrassment for dishing out cash instead of subsidised rice to Below Poverty Line (BPL) card holders due to an alleged shortage of the foodgrain, the Union government has unleashed a counterattack. Union Minister for Consumer Affairs, Food and Public Distribution Pralhad Joshi hit back at the state government, saying, "They aren't even prepared to buy rice from us."

His statement comes just months after state leaders lambasted the Union government for hoarding rice and selling it at Rs 29 per kg to allegedly woo voters during the general elections. State Congress leaders had blamed central ministers and BJP's then 25 MPs from Karnataka for not doing enough to get the required quantity of rice. Now, Joshi's broadside has left the state government scrambling to explain itself in a political standoff.

In an exclusive interaction with The New Indian Express, Joshi said, "I said over a month ago that the Union government is ready to sell Karnataka all the rice it needs under the Open Market Sale Scheme at Rs 28 per kg. This scheme is available to all states. This was conveyed to the state, and even the chief secretary knows it. Food Minister Muniyappa came to see me, but the state decided to continue cash transfers instead of buying rice."

Congress MLA Roopkala Shashidhar, daughter of food minister KH Muniyappa, asked "Why now?" She said, "When we desperately needed rice, CM Siddaramaiah personally pleaded with them last year, but they turned their back. We had no choice but to hand out cash. No one should politicise schemes meant for the poor."

A national foodgrain procurement expert told TNIE, "The Centre now has surplus rice and is using it for ethanol production too." This revelation raises eyebrows and questions the Union government's priorities during the height of the crisis. The expert added that last year, there was a shortage of rice with the centre and this year, there is excess stock.

Political analysts said, "The Union government's failure to provide rice when Karnataka was in dire need is etched in public memory. Now, this sudden offer of extra rice looks like damage control."

The state government pays cash instead of 5 kg rice to BPL card holders under its Anna Bhagya scheme, as it could not source required quantities of rice. The state government is expected to resume distribution of the full quantity of rice from October. The state government need not buy rice now as it can be done just four to five days before distribution. The stock is lying at Food Corporation of India godowns now.

GOVERNOR PLAYING POLITICS, SAYS PRIYANK

One of the most significant pending bills is the Karnataka Religious Institutions and Endowments Amendment Bill, 2024, which is embroiled in a legal dispute after Karnataka High Court's Dharwad bench overturned the amendments made in 2011 and 2012. Although the Supreme Court stayed the high court's decision, the governor has withheld approval to it. Addressing the media in Kalaburagi earlier in the day, RDPR Minister Priyank Kharge criticised the governor stating that "he is playing politics". "He is deliberately stalling the bills, seeking unnecessary clarifications. The bills on preventing corruption in government recruitments, and registration of land records have been deliberately withheld," Priyank alleged.

MY TAKE

GROW HAPPY, KID! RELISH LIFE IN ALL ITS HUES

NIRAD MUDUR
Deputy Resident Editor, Karnataka
niradgmudur@newindianexpress.com

A 13-year-old boy in Dharwad took his own life after his parents refused him to use his mobile phone, instead asking him to study. The shocking incident instantly impresses upon people that the parents were wrong in telling their child to study and not use his mobile phone. More so, because of the tragic outcome.

There is something disturbing, and it comes from a report titled "Student Suicides: An Epidemic Sweeping India," released in Delhi on August 28 during the Annual IC3 (International Career and College Counseling) Conference and Expo 2024, as part of the global movement to establish career and college counseling in every school with a mission for young people to get the support they need for purpose and direction in their lives. The report, citing the National Crime Records Bureau (NCRB), says that while the overall annual suicide rates in India increased by 2%, the rate of suicides among students rose by 4%. What is unnerving is that the report also suggests that these figures could be under-reported, which means the issue is even more serious than made out to be.

Suicide has been a major concern while trying to deal with the why of it and how it can be prevented. But lately the surge in suicides among pre-teens and early teens is unprecedentedly disturbing, which needs serious attention and solutions through a systematic understanding about this tragic trend.

If children as young as in their pre-teens and early teens choose to decide that it's not worth living, then it is not just the failure of the child's immediate family members, but that of the society itself. It only means we, as a society, have ignored the basic life skills that need to be developed in a child to enjoy life to the fullest in its early stages. Failing to do so, means growing into an adult with an unhealthy and threateningly negative mind.

Suicides have no justifications, especially when people so young consider them as a "go-to" just because they find no solutions to their perceived problems. The prevention is in-built in the skills development of the child itself. Utmost care needs to be taken to ensure that "suicide" as in the act of taking one's own life is not eulogized in narrations to children. Instead, the narrations need to be filled with positivity so children can grow with a conviction that "No matter what the problem, there is bound to be a solution or a way out!" It needs to be driven into the young minds that "Nothing is impossible!" and that "Every problem has a solution, no matter what!"

According to the American Academy of Child & Adolescent Psychiatry, suicide attempts among younger children are often impulsive, and may be associated with feelings of sadness, confusion, anger, or problems with attention and hyperactivity. Among teenagers, suicide attempts may be associated with feelings of stress, self-doubt, pressure to succeed, financial uncertainty, disappointment, and loss. For some teens, suicide may appear to be the only solution to their problems. Thoughts about suicide and suicide attempts are often associated with depression, and the risk factors for it include family history of suicide attempts; exposure to violence; impulsivity; aggressive or disruptive behavior; bullying; feelings of acute hopelessness or helplessness; or acute loss or rejection — all of which need to be recognised and diagnosed for appropriate and comprehensive treatment.

Experts point out that children and adolescents thinking about suicide may make open comments like "I wish I was dead" or "I won't be a problem for you much longer". These are not to be ignored, and must be taken as sure-fire warning signs associated with the child considering extreme steps.

Other warning signs include changes in eating or sleeping habits; frequent or pervasive sadness; withdrawal from friends, family, and regular activities; frequent complaints about physical symptoms often related to emotions, such as stomachaches, headaches, fatigue, etc; and decline in the quality of schoolwork.

Parents and teachers together need to keep a close watch on children, while exchanging notes on the overall mental development of the child. Workshops for young parents on educating them about the child's mental development and the psychological aspects of it need to be introduced through early stages of schooling.

From the government's side, while skill development among the youth is being highlighted and steps are being taken in that direction, equal or even more importance needs to be given to develop attitudinal changes in children right from an early age in school. Towards that end, the government needs to make it mandatory for each and every school to have a counsellor to monitor children's mental health and well-being.

It's time we realise the invaluable potential of mental well-being of children. They should be like healthy trees growing out of healthy seeds, needing nurturing throughout their growth — physical and, more importantly, mental.

SIT files 1,652-page chargesheet against Prajwal in 2nd rape case

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

The victim was a member of the Hassan Zilla Panchayat when she was allegedly raped at gunpoint by Prajwal in the MPs' quarters in Hassan in 2021.

The chargesheet contains statements of 113 witnesses, of whom a few have given their statements before a magistrate.

The victim, also a JDS worker, has stated in her detailed complaint that she had visited the office of the MP and MLA to help the public as she was a panchayat member. When she went to meet Prajwal for seats in the BCM hostel for girl students, she was asked to wait for him in a room on the first floor. After a few other women in the room left, Prajwal allegedly closed the door and pushed her on the bed. When she threatened to scream, he allegedly told her that he would shoot her husband dead with his gun.

"He made a video even as he raped me. He threatened me that he would release the video if I told anyone about the incident or refused to meet him whenever he summoned me. He even told me that his face is not visible in the video and nothing would happen to him. He used to make video calls and force me to undress," she stated in her complaint.

SIT sleuths have already submitted a chargesheet against Prajwal and his father MLA HD Revanna in the first complaint registered against them in the Holenarasipura Town police station in Hassan.

Mizoram Governor K Hari Babu suddenly fell ill during his Hyderabad visit on Monday. He was shifted to Star Hospitals in Nanakramguda through a green channel from the Rajiv Gandhi International Airport. Officials at the hospital told TNIE, "The patient was suffering from high fever. He is stable as of now and is kept under observation."

Woman kills boy, hides body in washing machine

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Tirunelveli

A 40-year-old woman murdered her neighbour's three-year-old son allegedly over previous enmity, and hid the body inside her washing machine in Athukurichi village of Radhapuram taluk, Tirunelveli, on Monday.

The Radhapuram police identified the deceased as V Sanjay, son of Vignesh, a construction worker. A Thangammal of Athukurichi has been arrested in connection with the murder.

According to sources, the incident occurred after Sanjay, who was playing in front of his house, went missing on Monday morning.

Following this, Vignesh lodged a complaint with the Radhapuram police, and a search was carried out in houses along the street and water tanks in the locality.

"While searching Thangammal's house, the police found Sanjay's body wrapped in a sack and hidden inside the washing machine," sources said.

Further, the police arrested Thangammal and questioned her. It is learnt that Thangammal might have killed the boy over personal enmity with his father.

"The police suspect that previous enmity could be the motive. Inquiry is on to find out if anyone else was involved in the crime. Besides, as Thangammal had recently lost her son in an accident, the police are also inquiring about her mental stability," sources added.

NOW, ODISHA FACES RAIN FURY

Malkangiri, Koraput districts grapple with flood-like situation

ASISH MEHTA/DEBA PRASAD DASH @Bhubaneswar/Makangiri

TORRENTIAL rains triggered by the deep depression left Malkangiri district grappling with a flood-like situation as large parts of the district remained cut off from both Odisha and Andhra Pradesh ends on Monday.

Over 1,800 people had to be shifted to safer places as storm water submerged roads and bridges, inundating may areas in two blocks of the district which received an average of 185 mm rainfall with Malkangiri block recording 253 mm.

The intensity of rain dropped by Monday evening but by then Malkangiri had faced the wrath of two days rainfall leading to submergence of low-lying bridges at Pangam, MV-7, Potteru, MV-90, Kangrukonda on NH-326. A bridge near Kalimela Government SSD Girls High school was overtopped by storm water snapping communication between Kalimela, Podia and Chhattisgarh. Link between Balimela and Andhra Pradesh through Chitrakonda remained cut off as the old Piligada bridge on Odisha side was washed away. In two schools, inmates of hostels were shifted to the panchayat offices as water entered the premises.

Chief Minister Mohan Charan Majhi reviewed the situation and held discussions with Revenue and Disaster Management Minister Suresh Pujari. He deputed DG, Fire Services Sundhansu Sarangi, Principal Secretary to SSEPD department Bishnupada Sethi and DIG, southern range Charan Meena to Malkangiri to supervise and assist district administration in disaster management.

Speaking to mediapersons, special relief commissioner Deoranjan Kumar Singh said more than 504 people were evacuated to safer places in Malkangiri.

In Koraput, which initially faced the impact of the rain bearing weather system, about 36 villages in six blocks were affected. More than 56 people were evacuated and shifted to relief camps. Three teams of ODRAF are stationed in the district.

A house was damaged in the landslide at Chatrapalli village in ASR district

One killed, three hurt in landslide at ASR village

Visakhapatnam / Vijayawada: Incessant rainfall disrupted normal life in the districts of north coastal Andhra Pradesh, particularly in Alluri Sitarama Raju district. Road connectivity to interior villages was hit as several bridges were washed away. Heavy landslides were reported in Chatrapalli village of Alluri Sitarama Raju district on Sunday night. One person died and three others were injured. Confirming the incident, ASR District Collector AS Dinesh Kumar said the deceased has been identified as 20-year-old Korra Kumari.

Mom, girl die as bus ploughs into crowd

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Tumakuru

A woman and her 13-year-old daughter were killed on the spot and three others were injured when a bus belonging to a garment factory ploughed through a crowd at Ramashettihalli on NH-206 near Tiptur on Monday.

The victims were waiting for a bus when the private vehicle rammed into them while trying to avoid hitting a moped rider crossing the highway. The deceased have been identified as Kamalamma (45) of Ramashettihalli and Veena, a Class 8 student at a school in Halepalya. The woman had come to drop her daughter to school when the incident occurred.

Tension prevailed for sometime as locals staged a protest by resisting the shifting of the bodies to the mortuary. They alleged that NHAI officials failed to build an underpass at the spot to facilitate safe road crossing.

Tahsildar Pawan Kumar and DySP Vinayaka Shettigeri visited the spot and pacified the protestors.

Tiptur rural police arrested the driver and booked him on rash driving charges.

TULU ADDED TO UNICODE STANDARD

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mangaluru

TULU, which is widely spoken in Dakshina Kannada, Udupi and Kasaragod districts, has been added to the Unicode, a text encoding standard, by the Unicode Consortium. The language has been added in the Unicode Standard Version 16.0, and around 80 Tulu characters have been added to the Unicode.

Tharanath Gatti Kapikad, chairman, Karnataka Tulu Sahitya Academy, in a statement, said the recognition of the Tulu script by adding the language to Unicode has fulfilled the long-cherished dream of the Karnataka Tulu Sahitya Academy and the entire Tulu-speaking community across the world.

Kapikad said many experts had worked on this effort after the then academy president AC Bhandary formed an expert committee to coordinate the matter and extended support on behalf of the academy in 2017. In subsequent years, experts submitted requests and revisions to push for the acceptance of the Tulu script by Unicode continuously.

He said experts, including KP Rao, UB Pavanaja, Vaishnavi Murthy, SA Krishnaiah, Radhakrishna Belluru, Bhaskar Sherigar, SR Vighnaraj and Akash Raj contributed to make this dream a reality. "With Unicode recognising the Tulu script under another name, Tulu-Tigalari, people across the world will have access to texts written in Tulu script."

Sudden waking up triggers stress hormones

FOR those with cardiovascular issues, insufficient sleep combined with being jolted awake by an alarm can intensify these risks, making the early-morning blood pressure surge particularly dangerous.

The research also highlighted the broader impact of alarm-induced wake-ups on overall well-being. Sudden awakenings increase stress levels and trigger stress hormones such as cortisol and adrenaline, disrupting the body's natural sleep cycle and leading to "sleep inertia," where individuals feel groggy and disoriented for up to two hours after waking. This can affect mental health and mood.

Inadequate sleep combined with abrupt awakening from an alarm can worsen the problem, activating the sympathetic nervous system and causing symptoms such as fatigue, shortness of breath, anxiety, neck stiffness and in severe cases, nosebleeds and headaches.

MODI'S PRESCRIPTION FOR RUSSIA APPLIES TO MANIPUR TOO

WHEN a chief minister calls on his state's governor twice in two days, it normally would indicate a possible change in government. Manipur Chief Minister N Biren Singh had a one-on-one with Governor Lakshman Prasad Acharya on Saturday amid buzz that the former had suggested mass resignation of the ruling MLAs at a snap NDA meeting called earlier in the day. Another speculated proposal was to place the assembly under suspended animation in the wake of the surprise drone bombings since September 1. If true, both ideas were trial balloons that were shot down. They anyway drew scepticism as Singh is a hard-nosed neta not known for yielding even if push comes to shove. Had he really wanted to, there were umpteen opportunities last year for him to do so when ethnic violence killed 220 people and displaced more than 60,000. Singh called on the governor again on Sunday, this time with NDA lawmakers, and submitted a memorandum. While its contents were not made public, Singh is said to have been critical of the leadership of the central security forces. Close to 20,000 paramilitary personnel are deployed in the state, apart from the army and the police.

With NDA lawmakers coming under intense pressure from their constituencies because of the drone bomb scare, they are trying to blame it on the 'ineffective' paramilitary forces. Singh demanded the transfer of control of the unified command—which takes the call on security matters—from the Centre to the state government. He also sought targeted action on Kuki-Zo militant camps in the hills. Since September 1, nine persons have been killed by drone bombs and rocket fire. As for the unified command, it has started testing and deploying anti-drone systems to neutralise the new threat. The police, too, are procuring these special equipment.

Some positive gestures need to be made to settle the ethnic conflict, but Singh is totally opposed to the Kuki demand of autonomous administration. He ought to realise that Prime Minister Narendra Modi's advice to Russia and Ukraine that peace does not come from the battlefield, but through dialogue, applies to Manipur as well. His demand for scrapping the Suspension of Operation accord the central and Manipur governments signed with Kuki insurgent outfits in 2008 goes against the grain of giving dialogue a chance.

PARALYMPIANS DO WHAT OLYMPIANS COULD NOT

A total of 84 inspirational stories represented India at Paralympics 2024. Their stories and collective success will be recorded in India's sporting history with aplomb. The medals tally reflected a rise—from the 24th spot in Tokyo to the 18th in Paris. The medal haul rose sharply in the last two events. However, the beginning of India's Paralympic journey was sedate. A blank in 1968 was followed by the first medal—a gold in swimming—at the next edition. After a break from participation in 1976 and 1980, India won four medals in 1984. Then there were blanks from Seoul to Sydney.

The story of failure went beyond the Games. The Paralympic Committee of India (PCI) was mired in needless controversies. A semblance of normalcy prevailed after Rio 2016. The tally increased from four in Rio to 19 in Tokyo. In Paris, the count rose to 29 medals with seven gold. What was heartening is that most athletes billed as medal hopes did go on to win—Avani Lekhara and Sumit Antil retained their gold medals, while the 17-year-old para-archer Sheetal Devi became a sensation. Credit must go to the newly-elected PCI that took charge months ahead of Paris, but the unprecedented support athletes received from the government through the Sports Authority of India must also be noted. They supported all sports and the total spend was about ₹74 crore under the Target Olympic Podium, Khelo India and national centres of excellence schemes.

The impact of the Paralympics will go beyond sport. As a country, India has a substantial population of persons with various disabilities—according to the census, the number was at 2.68 crore in 2011. Not just in sports, but the success of so many para athletes is inspirational to persons with disabilities to rise above their stations. On the other hand, the authorities must not compare this success with the Olympic Games. All stakeholders including the SAI and the national sports federations know the difference between the two and hopefully will not try to brush the failure of the Summer Olympics under the success of the Paralympics. Instead, it will be prudent to learn from the para athletes. For now, let's celebrate their success.

QUICK TAKE

REDUCE LIGHT POLLUTION

EXPOSURE to bright light at night affects humans and wildlife. We knew light pollution can result in sleep deprivation, fatigue, headaches and anxiety. New research shows it also increases the risk of Alzheimer's disease, especially in people under the age of 65. The study, conducted across the US and published in Frontiers in Neuroscience, links bright night-time light more strongly with the neurodegenerative disease than alcohol abuse, depression, heart failure and obesity. A 2019 study showed a steady rise in light pollution across India—especially in New Delhi, Telangana, Maharashtra and Karnataka—over a 20-year period. It's time to incorporate this lesser-noticed cause for hazard in urban planning in the country.

Forbearance and maturity are needed at a time when there is little clarity in many geopolitical arenas. Some of the fog will lift after the US election

STRATEGIC PATIENCE: A CURRENCY FOR TODAY'S GEOPOLITICS

SOURAV ROY

THE diplomatic and strategic security hierarchies of India are fully seized of the plethora of geopolitical challenges that have come in India's path as we fought our way out of the pandemic and restored our balance over the last two years. Simultaneously, with improving economic prospects as the fastest growing large economy and our aims quite clearly set upon achieving various benchmarks, there is clearly a need for an even more pragmatic approach to national security.

Wars of any kind would be anathema at such a time and sub-conventional threats even worse due to their longevity and all-pervading impact on society. The world is at a juncture where clarity in developing geopolitical situations is indeterminate and decision-making strewn with challenges. In purely strategic security terms, such a time is best handled through immense forbearance and maturity, with an eye on second and third order impact. In many ways, this could also be defined as the era of 'strategic patience'.

There is plenty of evidence that doing nothing in geopolitical terms is many times a good strategy, but that isn't what strategic patience alludes to. Individuals, leaders, organisations and society often have an 'action bias', virtually a psychological compulsion to act while procrastination is politically considered passé. At such times, that indeed is dangerous. How does this philosophy apply to India's geopolitical matrix of the current times?

When the US withdrew from Afghanistan, it appeared fairly plausible that it was girding its loins in preparedness for what strategists called the inevitable confrontation with China. China was at an aggressive high through the pandemic, repelling criticism of its irresponsible handling of the crisis and using coercion through wolf warrior diplomacy. India's proximity to the US unwittingly enhanced as the strategic partnership developed faster than it may otherwise have.

However, the US focus towards the Indo-Pacific received competition from other regions as soon as the Ukraine war broke out on February 24, 2022. That is when the issue of India's neutrality and strategic autonomy came into prominence. India did exactly what was most suitable: it remained balanced in its relationships while quietly pursuing its national interest, which in this case revolved around cheap and sufficient energy, and an uninterrupted supply chain of military hardware for its Russian oriented equipment.

The G20 interlude of a year gave India strategic opportunity to elevate its engagement to a higher platform and be viewed as a key player in the developing strategic dynamics. The recent deliberate and unhurried approach to intervention as an intermediary in conflict resolution between Russia and Ukraine is a fine demonstration of strategic patience. India's prime minister sought no outcomes from his visits to Russia and Ukraine, only greater sensitisation, although many expected immediate ceasefire, and some measures towards resolution.

This is equally applicable to the Middle East, where India had over the last 10 years cultivated relationships beginning to bear fruit. The proposed India-Middle East-Europe Corridor (IMEC) was at an interesting stage of decision making when the Israel-Hamas war broke the back of all engagements. IMEC went into a shell, as did the other interesting emerging equation—India-Israel-US-UAE , also referred to as the Western Quad. The entire focus shifted to the war in Gaza, the Iran-Israel standoff and the potential outcome.

India has remained on the sidelines and continued to affirm support to peace. In the progressing situation, there existed much scope for losing the gains of the last 10 years. None of that has happened, although India's role as a potential mediator has not emerged in this conflict. Remaining at standstill in some contentious geopolitical situations is also an achievement of sorts and is often the outcome of strategic patience.

The US presidential election will no doubt have a major impact on the world's polity and the way international affairs will progress from the standstill they are in at the moment. India has maintained a balanced equanimity towards the presidential candidates just as in the past. Rightly so, the diplomatic progress in Indo-US relations has continued without a break.

However, sooner than later, India's stance on various issues will need a more decided approach; Iran, for example, or even US-Pak relations. The Gaza war will taper off at some stage in the near future, leaving the Middle East in deep cleavages. That is the time we need to be prepared for. Recent visits into Europe by our political leadership have also been in anticipation of new and unpredictable dynamics that will inevitably emerge if violence in Ukraine draws down post the US elections.

Closer home, in the precincts of our 'near abroad' region, a major strategic change has occurred posing a foreign policy challenge. The regime change in Bangladesh has upset a strategic comfort level that seemed to exist for long, at least 15 years. However, a very gloomy picture is being painted with reference to the future of Indo-Bangladesh relations. Jaideep Saikia, stated in a recent article that "strategic forethought, unfortunately, cannot be addressed just on the basis of the visible and the apparent".

In reality, when a comfort zone gets breached, there is a rush to restore it; in fact, the effort usually seeks a facsimile of the situation of the past. That situation will not return for long, maybe never. Hence the necessity to view the emerging challenge from all angles.

We are seeing the devil in diverse avatars everywhere, all gunning against our interests; the Jamaat, the BNP, Pakistan's ISI, the North East rebels and more. However, we need not forget the congruence of interests that India and Bangladesh enjoy. India's economic growth positively impacts Bangladesh too, as do issues such as water sharing, disaster management, medical tourism and education. We can retrieve much of the perceived loss by maintaining strategic patience and speaking much less, especially among less informed circles.

Lastly, with the J&K elections lined up, the potential scenarios are just too many. We could speculate less on those and just have the patience to see through peaceful elections. There is no need for any hurry in bringing any major change there without first ensuring full and firm consultation.

THE CURIOUS DIFFERENCE BETWEEN IPC & BNS ON RAPE

ATUL N MENON

Advocate, Supreme Court of India

THE Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita, 2023 (BNS) has brought an important change to sexual harassment cases. It's about one provision—Section 69—that deals with sexual intercourse by employing deceitful means. It makes a person who has had sexual intercourse through 'deceitful means' or by 'making a promise to marry a woman' without any intention of fulfilling it liable for jail of up to 10 years and a fine. 'Deceitful means' include inducement, false promise of employment or promotion, or suppression of identity. The offence is serious, cognisable and non-bailable.

At first look, one would certainly feel the provision was much-needed. For example, in the explosive Hema Committee report targeting predators in the Malayalam film industry, there was mention of sexual exploitation of women workers through the promise of work favours. Many who fell for this trap did not make it to the final cut of films, as promised.

However, some issues with the provision require attention in interpretation and use. The first is regarding the use of the term 'sexual intercourse not amounting of rape'. Before the enactment of the BNS, individuals indulging in sexual intercourse based on an alleged false promise of marriage were accused of rape under Section 375 of the Indian Penal Code. If consent was obtained on a 'misconception of fact', the courts did not hesitate to uphold the charge of rape, like in Anurag Soni vs Chhattisgarh. The punishment for rape cannot be less than 10 years and may extend to life imprisonment. On the other hand, a person committing an offence under BNS's Section 69 would fall in a relatively new category of having sexual intercourse not amounting to rape and could be punished with a maximum sentence of 10 years.

Since the definition of rape continues to be largely identical in IPC and BNS, it is not clear how such an offender can now escape the charge in such cases. One may interpret the legislative intent as one to carve out a slightly different kind of offence, attracting a lesser punishment. This is because of the established law that when there is an apparent conflict between two independent provisions, be it in the same statute, the special provision must prevail (J K Cotton Spinning & Weaving Mills vs Uttar Pradesh, 1961).

The next issue is the scope for the provision's misuse. The phrase "by making promise to marry to a woman without any intention of fulfilling the same, has sexual intercourse with her" would have to be interpreted the same way as the courts used to interpret consent obtained by misconception, though the word 'consent' does not feature in Section 69. So what would need to be investigated is whether the accused who made promises had the intent to honour them at the time of having intercourse and making the promise. The proof of such intent would be unravelled from the conduct and action of the accused.

NO SEX WITHOUT CONSENT

AFP

The Indian Penal Code penalises sexual intercourse by deceitful promises as rape, sanctioning jail of at least 10 years. But Section 69 of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita treats it a bit differently and proposes jail of less than 10 years. This leaves scope for misinterpretation and misuse

The difference between a "false promise" and a "breach of promise" was illustrated in a recent decision of the Bombay High Court in Pramod Dhanji Purabiya vs Maharashtra. The prosecutrix, a divorcee and a mother, was acquainted with the accused, who gave her a job as a junior artist in TV serials and thereafter built up the relation with promises to marry and to look after her young son. When the woman became pregnant, the accused refused to marry her and asked her to terminate the pregnancy. When the woman refused and gave birth to the child, the accused denied paternity. On a plea of the accused to quash an FIR registered against him, the court observed that he did not intend to fulfil his promise right from the inception. It was also observed that the mere fact of renting premises for the victim did not establish intent to marry. The victim's belief the accused would marry him was vitiated by a 'misconception of fact'.

Courts analyse the facts to see if an offence is made or not before deciding whether to quash it. The Supreme Court also has, on several occasions, reviewed facts relating to the false promise of marriage, including this July in Shiv Pratap Singh Rana vs Madhya Pradesh, where the top court set aside the high court's decision to uphold charges of rape and criminal intimidation after noting contradictions in the prosecutrix's statements before the police and the trial court.

It is also possible that a person, knowing fully well that the party who made a promise had no intention to fulfil it, continues to engage in a relationship and later files a complaint to coerce the person into marrying or giving employment. In cases where a false promise is alleged, it is difficult to prove the allegation in court, but easy to register an FIR.

The absence of the word 'consent' gives a false impression. A person having intercourse through deceitful means would obviously be doing so without consent. Therefore, even though the word 'consent' is absent in Section 69, it cannot be said to be irrelevant. Otherwise, it would lead to a completely absurd interpretation and increase the scope for misuse.

Ideally, this cannot be gender-specific, too—a woman can deceive a man as much as the other way. However, the language used seems to bring only men within the ambit of Section 69.

Convictions under this provision are yet to be seen and so it will take long to have an authoritative interpretation. Meanwhile, it is a valuable tool for those making genuine calls for help.

India, UAE sign energy and nuclear pacts

PM Modi, Crown Prince acknowledge success of economic partnership agreement and Bilateral Investment Treaty

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

INDIA and the United Arab Emirates on Monday signed four agreements to expand cooperation in energy, including nuclear power, as Prime Minister Narendra Modi held bilateral discussions with Abu Dhabi Crown Prince Sheikh Khaled bin Mohamed bin Zayed Al Nahyan, focusing on boosting strategic ties.

Emirates Nuclear Energy Company (ENEC) and Nuclear Power Corporation of India Ltd (NPCIL inked an MoU for the operation and maintenance of Barakah Nuclear Power Plant, according to the ministry of external affairs (MEA).

An agreement for long-term LNG supply between Abu Dhabi National Oil Company (ADNOC) and Indian Oil Corporation Ltd, and another between ADNOC and India Strategic Petroleum Reserve Ltd (ISPRL) were signed.

The fourth pact is a production concession agreement for Abu Dhabi onshore block-one between Urja Bharat and ADNOC. A separate MoU was signed for development of a food park in Gujarat.

"The two leaders also acknowledged the success of the Comprehensive Economic Partnership Agreement (CEPA) and Bilateral Investment Treaty (BIT). They also underscored the need to explore new areas of untapped potential in critical minerals, green hydrogen, AI and cutting-edge technologies,'' an MEA statement said.

Crown Prince plants tree at Raj Ghat, follows family tradition

The UAE leader paid tributes to Mahatma Gandhi at his memorial Rajghat. He not only placed a wreath at the memorial but also planted a tree in keeping with the tradition set up by his father and grandfather. Crown Prince Al Nahyan planted an Amaltas tree in Raj Ghat. In 1992, Sheikh Zayed Bin Sultan Al Nahyan, the founding father of the UAE, had also planted an Amaltas tree during his visit to Rajghat. His son Sheikh Mohamed Bin Zayed Al Nahyan had planted a Molshri sapling in 2016.

Crown Prince Al Nahyan also called on President Droupadi Murmu. On Tuesday, he will visit Mumbai to take part in an India-UAE Business Forum, a platform for business leaders and officials from both sides to brainstorm future cooperation. A large business delegation has come from the UAE to take part in the discussions. A soft launch on the commencement of work on the India-UAE virtual trade corridor (VTC) and MAITRI interface to facilitate VTC will also take place in Mumbai.

After holding talks with Modi, the visiting leader paid tributes to Mahatma Gandhi at his memorial Raj Ghat. He not only placed a wreath at the memorial but also planted a tree in keeping with the tradition set up by his father and grandfather. Crown Prince Al Nahyan planted an Amaltas tree in Rajgath. In 1992, Sheikh Zayed Bin Sultan Al Nahyan, the founding father of the UAE, had also planted an Amaltas tree during his visit to Raj Ghat. His son Sheikh Mohamed Bin Zayed Al Nahyan had planted a Molshri sapling in 2016.

"For a sustainable future Sheikh Khaled bin Mohamed bin Zayed Al Nahyan planted a sapling in keeping with the tradition of his family. India-UAE partnership has been nurtured by generations of UAE leadership, rooted in friendship and branching into a multifaceted partnership,'' said the Indian Embassy in the UAE. The India-UAE ties have witnessed a major upswing in the last few years.

Both countries signed a Comprehensive Economic Partnership Agreement (CEPA) in February 2022 and a Local Currency Settlement (LCS) System in July 2023 to promote the use of Indian rupee and AED (United Arab Emirates Dirham) for cross-border transactions. The two countries are among each other's top trading partners with a bilateral trade of about $85 billion in 2022-23, according to official data. 'Row over IC 814 series unnecessary'

FORMER Research and Analysis Wing (RAW) chief A S Dulat tells Preetha Nair about the recent controversy over Netflix series 'IC 814: The Kandahar Hijack' and why he thinks it is not a diplomatic failure of the then Atal Bihari Vajpayee government. Excerpts:

You have admitted that it was a mistake to allow the hijacked IC-814 flight to leave Amritsar.

I said it was a "goof up". But after watching the scenes of what the passengers went through, I feel that it's just as well that nothing happened in Amritsar. We don't know how many people would have been killed. The Punjab DGP also said that there would be killings if they had stormed the plane and that they wanted to avoid bloodshed.

Verbatim

The series shows that RAW and IB had prior information about hijacking. How do you respond to it?

There was no such information. It is all rubbish.

The director is also accused of whitewashing the ISI in the series. Your take.

I haven't seen the entire movie, but it seems fine. A movie doesn't necessarily need to criticise the ISI. We know that the ISI was involved. This is a film and the filmmakers have done it on the basis of what they heard or saw.

There is criticism about the AB Vajpayee government being soft on terror as it released three terrorists. You take.

I don't subscribe to that view. I think the Vajpayee government did its best and that's what could be done. The priority was to get all the passengers back safe and sound. Though the terrorists demanded the release of a long list of people, it was whittled down to three. So the negotiators did a good job.

Is the series close to the real incidents?

I think it looks pretty close to reality. We didn't know what was going on in the aircraft. But it looks very sad inside there. The recent controversy is unnecessary.

HARYANA, J&K POLLS

Talks with Cong fail, AAP list of 20 for Haryana out

HARPREET BAJWA @Chandigarh

THE Aam Aadmi Party on Monday released its first list of 20 candidates for the upcoming Haryana assembly elections, signalling the end of pre-poll alliance talks with the Congress. It confirmed that the negotiations with Congress did not materialise.

The party has also fielded candidates in constituencies having Congress MLAs. It has fielded state vice-president Anurag Dhanda from Kalayat in the Kaithal district, and Indu Sharma from Bhiwani. The party's largest lead was from the Kalayat assembly segment in the recent Lok Sabha polls.

While Vikas Nehra is being fielded from Meham, Bijender Hooda from Rohtak, Kuldeep Gadrana will take on Digvijay Chautala of the Jannayak Janta Party (JJP) in Dabwali, Amit Sihag of Congress and the Indian National Lok Dal's Aditya Devi Lal.

In addition to it, Pawan Fauji has been fielded from Uchana Kalan against former deputy chief minister Dushyant Chautala of JJP and Brijendra Singh of Congress. Confirming the development, senior AAP leader Manish Sisodia said the prepoll alliance talks with Congress for the assembly elections failed, prompting the party to go it alone. Citing the strength of its organisation in every assembly constituency, AAP state president Dr Sushil Gupta stated that the party waited patiently for an alliance but it could not work out.

However, at the national level, he added that AAP remains a partner of the INDIA bloc. On Sunday, Rajya Sabha MP Raghav Chadha said that the party will decide well before September 12, the last day of filing nominations

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

IN order to ensure the party's disgruntled leaders, who have been denied tickets to contest Assembly polls in Jammu and Kashmir, don't rebel against the party and contest as independent candidates, the BJP has accommodated some disgruntled leaders in new positions in the party.

The BJP has denied tickets to some of its senior leaders including two former CMs Dr Nirmal Singh and Kavinder Gupta, former J&K BJP chief Sat Sharma, senior leaders Choudhary Sukhnandan, Advocate Chander Mohan Sharma, Kashmira Singh and Rohit Dubey.

After being denied tickets, two BJP leaders including Chander Mohan Sharma, who had a 50-year-long association with the party, and Kashmira Singh quit the party. Both would be contesting as independent candidates and fighting against BJP candidates in their respective constituencies. Rohit Dubey too is contemplating to contest as an independent candidate.

In order to prevent its senior leaders from leaving the party and contesting as independent candidates, the BJP offered the olive branch to the disgruntled and accommodated them in new positions today.

At GCC, Jaishankar says Gaza situation a concern, India backs 2-state solution

YESHI SELI @New Delhi

EXTERNAL Affairs Minister S Jaishankar, while addressing the first India-Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC) meeting of Foreign Ministers in Riyadh on Monday, said that the current situation in Gaza was his country's foremost concern.

"The current situation in Gaza is now understandably our foremost concern. India's position in this regard has been principled and consistent. While we condemn acts of terrorism and hostage-taking, we are deeply pained by the continuing death of innocent civilians. Any response must take into account the principles of humanitarian law. We support a ceasefire as soon as possible," the External Affairs minister said.

Dr Jaishankar co-chaired the India-GCC joint ministerial meeting for Strategic Dialogue with Qatar's PM and FM, Sheikh Mohammed bin Abdulrahman bin Jassim Al Thani.

A Joint Action Plan 2024-28 for undertaking joint activities in diverse areas, including health, trade, security, agriculture, and energy, was adopted during the meeting.

On the sidelines of the India-GCC meeting, he had separate bilateral meetings with the foreign ministers of Qatar, Saudi Arabia, Oman, Kuwait and Bahrain. The GCC is an influential group that comprises the UAE, Saudi Arabia, Bahrain, Oman, Qatar, and Kuwait. The trade volume between India and GCC countries was $184.46 billion during 2022-23.

On Palestine, India reaffirmed its support for a two-state resolution. "We have consistently stood for resolving the Palestinian issue through a two-state solution. We have also contributed to the building of Palestinian institutions andcapacities. Where the humanitarian situation is concerned, we have provided relief and increased our support to UNRWA," the minister added.

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

IN a move to upgrade to its anti-submarine warfare capability, the Indian navy on Monday launched the fourth and fifth ships of the 8 Anti-Submarine Warfare Shallow Water Craft project. The ships, Malpe and Mulki , were built by Cochin Shipyard Limited (CSL), Kochi.

"In keeping with the maritime traditions, the two ships were launched by Mrs Vijaya Srinivas in the presence of Vice Admiral V Srinivas, Flag Officer Commanding in Chief, Southern Naval Command," the Navy said in a statement.

The Mahe class of ships will be equipped with indigenously developed, state-of-the-art underwater sensors. They are envisaged to undertake anti-submarine operations in coastal waters as well as low-intensity maritime operations and mine laying operations.

"The ASW SWC ships are 78 m long and displacement is approx 900 tons. They can achieve a maximum speed of 25 knots with endurance of up to 1800 nautical miles," tne Navy said.

Joint doctrine for Amphibious Ops

Chief of Defence Staff General Anil Chauhan released India's Joint Doctrine for Amphibious Operations on Monday. The event took place during the Chiefs of Staff Committee (COSC) meeting. The Ministry of Defence said it "will provide guidance for conduct of Amphibious Operations in the complex military environment."

Contracts for Sixteen Anti Submarine Warfare Shallow Water Craft (ASW SWC) ships for construction of eight ships each from CSL, Kochi and Garden Reach Shipbuilders and Engineers (GRSE), Kolkata respectively were signed in April 2019.

The delivery schedule of the ships was delayed as the MoD then said that delivery was "to commence from October 22, with two ships per year subsequently, by each shipyard."

In view of India's vast coastline of 7516.6 kilometer with 12 major ports, 184 minor ports and 1197 Island territories, coastal surveillance for ASW operations is considered critical.

Induction of these specialised ships with lower draught would significantly enhance coastal shallow water anti-submarine warfare capability of the Indian Navy with improved performance of weapons, censors, hall mounted and towed Sonars.

"Simultaneous launch of these two ships highlights our strides in indigenous shipbuilding, towards Aatmanirbhar Bharat," Navy said.

"The ASW SWC ships will have over 80% indigenous content , thereby ensuring that large scale defence production is executed by Indian manufacturing units, generating employment and capability enhancement within the country," it said.

The Mahe class ASW Shallow Water Crafts have been named after ports of strategic importance along the coast of India , and will look to carry forward the glorious legacy of the erstwhile minesweepers which were their namesake.

Accused in custody can seek bail in another case: SC

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY
@ New Delhi

IN a significant ruling, the Supreme Court on Monday held that an accused in custody for one case is entitled to seek anticipatory bail in another matter, provided they have not been arrested by any agency or police in connection with the latter.

A three-judge bench of the apex court, led by Chief Justice D Y Chandrachud and Justices J B Pardiwala and Manoj Misra, delivered the verdict while addressing the legal question of whether an accused in jail can apply for pre-arrest bail in another criminal case.

"An accused is entitled to seek anticipatory bail in connection with an offence as long as they have not been arrested in relation to that offence. Once arrested, the only remedy available is to apply for regular bail under the appropriate section of the Code of Criminal Procedure (CrPC)," the court ruled.

The judgement essentially grants more rights to the accused, allowing them to approach the court for anticipatory bail in a separate case.

UP teachers' election list stayed by SC

The Supreme Court on Monday stayed the Allahabad High Court's order requiring the Uttar Pradesh government to prepare a new selection list for the appointment of 69,000 assistant teachers in the state. The SC also stayed the HC's verdict, which had invalidated the selection lists of assistant teachers issued by the state.

Murder case: Dera chief's reply sought

The SC on Monday agreed to examine a plea challenging the Punjab and Haryana HC order acquitting Dera chief Gurmeet Ram Rahim Singh and 4 others in 2002 murder of sect's former manager Ranjit Singh, citing "tainted and sketchy" probe. It issued notice to Ram Rahim and others seeking their response in 4 weeks.

The court further noted that if a person in custody for one offence fears arrest for a different offence, the latter is treated as a separate matter for all practical purposes. This means that all statutory rights of the accused and the investigating agency, in relation to the subsequent offence, remain independently protected.

The Supreme Court also clarified that if the investigating agency deems it necessary for interrogation or investigation in the subsequent offence, it may seek the remand of the accused while they are in custody for the previous offence, as long as an order granting anticipatory bail has not been passed for the subsequent offence. However, if the accused secures anticipatory bail, the investigating agency can no longer seek remand in relation to that offence.

Addressing the issue further, the court held that if a remand order is issued by a court before the accused secures anticipatory bail, the accused will not be eligible to apply for anticipatory bail, leaving regular bail as the only option.

Abhishek's plea against ED in coal scam nixed

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

IN a significant setback for TMC leader Abhishek Banerjee and his wife Rujira Banerjee, the Supreme Court on Monday rejected their plea challenging the summons issued by the Enforcement Directorate (ED) in connection with its investigation into a money laundering scam allegedly related to school jobs in West Bengal.

Abhishek Banerjee, a Member of Parliament from the Trinamool Congress, and his wife Rujira had approached the Supreme Court challenging the September 10, 2021, summons issued by the ED. They argued that they should be required to appear in Kolkata, their hometown, rather than in New Delhi. A two-judge bench of the Supreme Court, comprising Justice Bela Trivedi and Justice Satish Chandra Sharma, pronounced the verdict on Monday after reserving judgment on August 13.

STUDENT-MOLESTED

An autorickshaw driver was arrested in Kalyan in Thane for allegedly molesting a student, police said. The student noticed him indulging in inappropriate behaviour and asked him to stop but the latter refused, she then jumped out of the auto.

● After SC order, CM defends cops & says CBI must expedite probe ● Medicos say protests to continue till they get security

‘Return to festivities,’ says Mamata

SULAGNA SENGUPTA @Kolkata

AMID raging protests over the rape and murder of a doctor at the RG Kar Hospital in Kolkata, West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on Monday urged people to “return to festivities” as Durga Puja is round the corner. After the grisly crime at the hospital on August 9, many people hitting the streets declared that they would boycott Durga Puja, the biggest festival of the Bengalis.

Banerjee also requested the junior doctors to resume duty at the earliest after the Supreme Court directed the protesting doctors to resume work by 5 pm on Tuesday.

“The Supreme Court has requested you to join duty, I will repeat that request. If you have anything to say, you are always welcome. You can form a team of 5 to 10 members and meet me,” she said, offering across-the-table talks with the agitating doctors.

“If you stay on the roads every night, elderly people suffer from sleep deprivation because of noise pollution. We haven’t acted on state pollution control board norms. One month has passed. I request you to return to festivities and demand that the CBI completes investigations at the earliest,” she said.

CM’S COMMENT ON DURGA PUJA DRAWS FLAK

The CM’s comments on Durga Puja drew criticism, with many people saying on social media that how can she make such a statement at a time when protests are mounting demanding justice for the RG Kar victim. Mamata also alleged that the Centre was conspiring over public outcry involving the RG Kar incident.

The CM’s comments on Durga Puja drew criticism, with many people saying in social media that how can she make such a statement at a time when protests are mounting demanding justice for the RG Kar victim.

Monika Shaha, a social media influencer, said, “She (CM) cannot dictate how we will celebrate our pujas. We all know what Durga Puja means for all of us. But we want justice first for the RG Kar victim.”

Meanwhile, speaking at an administrative review meeting at the state secretariat ‘Nabanna’, Mamata alleged that the Centre was conspiring over public outcry involving the RG Kar incident. She also claimed that some Left parties were involved in it.

Banerjee also claimed she had never offered money to the deceased doctor’s parents, dismissing a campaign that the family members of the postgraduate trainee were requested to accept compensation.

“Kolkata Police arrested the culprit within 12 hours of the incident. The Kolkata police commissioner sent one of his officers to meet the parents and showed CCTV footage to brief them about the investigation. “When I reached their house, the CP was with me. I asked the CP to record all of their allegations. There are people accusing me of speaking of money. I never said any such thing. Show me a proof of that. This is a slanderous lie, a conspiracy.” Banerjee asserted.

Junior doctors say won’t join work as demands not met

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kolkata

AFTER the Supreme Court directed agitating junior doctors to join duty by 5 pm on Tuesday, the doctors working in state-run medical colleges said they would continue their cease-work as justice still eludes them even a month after the rape and murder of their colleague at RG Kar Medical College and Hospital in Kolkata.

This newspaper spoke with a few protesting doctors of RG Kar Hospital who said that they are not feeling safe despite the presence of CRPF personnel on the premises.

“After the rape-murder incident, a sense of fear haunts us. As many culprits are still roaming free trauma still, we apprehend that they might attack us any time,” a doctor said, wishing not to be named. Another doctor said, “We are not secure. Unless we get our security, we cannot join work. Our protest for justice to RG Kar victim will continue.”

Soon after the Supreme Court order, Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee convened a press conference and urged junior doctors to join their duty.

In the Supreme Court, the state government’s lawyer gave a report stating that 23 people died in the last one month in state-run hospitals after junior doctors started protests.

West Bengal Chief Secretary Manoj Pant said, “We are committed to providing security cover to meet the students’ demands. Already ₹100 crore has been allocated to various state-run medical colleges to upgrade security infrastructure, including resting rooms and renovation of toilets. We urge junior students to join duty.”

The junior doctors, however, claimed that the state government wants to scuttle their protests, so it is urging them to join duty. The doctors remained firm on protest unless their demands are addressed. “Unless we see major changes, we will continue our protest,” one said.

State flood crisis displaces thousands

In Gujarat, heavy rainfall has led to a flood crisis, displacing thousands and causing extensive damage to homes and vehicles. Despite the chaos, the BJP has launched an ambitious drive to enlist two crore new members from the state. However, some within the party are skeptical about reaching this goal. A BJP worker, speaking anonymously, pointed out the recent floods in Vadodara, where even relief efforts by party leaders faced public criticism. This has raised doubts about the feasibility of growing membership in such a challenging environment. Critics fear this target could become an unrealistic hurdle.

Preparations afoot for delayed local elections

Gujarat is moving forward with long-delayed local elections for self-governing bodies, postponed for the last two years. The state's urban development department has announced the formation of wards and seat reservations, including 27 percent representation for OBCs. The panchayat department has similarly addressed OBC seat allocations. Following these announcements, a one-month period will be open for objections and suggestions, after which the state election commission will finalize the election date. Sources say preparations are on for panchayat and municipal elections.

State BJP chief C R Patil sparks debate

A debate has arisen within the Gujarat BJP following state president and Union Minister C.R. Patil's remarks comparing the party's strength in Gujarat to that in Uttar Pradesh. During a membership campaign event, sources claim Patil pointed out that although Uttar Pradesh is three times larger than Gujarat, its BJP membership numbers are only slightly higher. He highlighted Gujarat's ambition to become the largest BJP membership base in the country, despite its smaller population. Patil's comments have stirred unease within the party, with some feeling uncomfortable about being compared to UP's BJP organization.

Reject Wakf bill, Rahman Khan writes to MPs

ENS @ Bengaluru

IN an open letter, former Rajya Sabha deputy chairman K Rahman Khan has encouraged Parliament members to reject the Wakf Amendment Bill, 2024. Khan, who led two Joint Parliamentary Committees on Wakf boards, said the Bill was controversial and a direct attack on the autonomy and rights of the minority Muslim community.

Rahman Khan minced no words when he said the Bill was a manifestation of “prejudice”, calling it an attempt to undermine the constitutional principles that protect Wakf properties’ cultural and historical significance for the Muslim community. He raised the issue of the Wakf Bill lacking the basic democratic principle of consulting with Wakf Boards and the Muslim community.

“Instead of addressing corruption, the Bill strips Wakf Boards of power, fuelling distrust between the state and Muslim community,” he said, and claimed the Bill violates key constitutional rights, including Article 14 -- Centralizing power and undermining equality before the law, Articles 25 and 26 -- Seizing control of religious properties, and Article 29 -- Undermining minority cultural and educational right.

Manipur students take to the streets, throw stones outside Guv’s residence

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @ Guwahati

PROTESTORS pelted stones outside the heavily-guarded Raj Bhawan in Manipur even as the police recovered the body of an ex-serviceman on Monday.

Videos circulating on social media showed the protestors pelting stones and the security personnel chasing them away by using force. The incident reportedly followed scuffles between the protestors and the personnel. In Thoubal district, a policeman sustained bullet injuries on the left thigh when a protester opened fire. The mob also damaged a vehicle parked outside Court complex.

Students across Imphal West, Kakching and Thoubal districts took out rallies against fresh violence in the ethnic violence-hit state that left nine people dead and over a dozen others injured.

Holding placards and banners, thousands of them came out wearing their uniform despite schools remaining closed on the day as per a government order.

The protestors chanted slogans outside the Raj Bhawan, demanding that security advisor Kuldiep Singh, Director General of Police Rajiv Singh and 50 MLAs resign “on moral ground”. The state has 60 MLAs, including 10 each from Naga and Kuki-Zo communities.

Further, they demanded that the charge of Unified Command be handed over to the state and the paramilitary forces leave the state for remaining “mute spectators”.

They expressed concerns over the recent rocket and drone bombing attacks and incidents of killings and arson and slammed the Centre and the state government for failing to contain the situation.

In Thoubal and Kakching, the protestors demanded the protection of state’s territorial integrity and abrogation of Suspension of Operations agreement signed with two umbrella organisations of Kuki insurgent groups.

Shah steps in to check Mahayuti’s Maha crisis, calls for united show

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @Mumbai

AMID mounting tension over seat-sharing in the BJP-led Mahayuti in poll-bound Maharashtra, senior BJP leader Amit Shah on Monday held a closed-door meeting with the alliance partners, emphasising the crucial role of unity for its success in the assembly polls and cautioning them against airing their internal differences in public.

The union minister was in Mumbai to pay obeisance to Lalbaugcha Raja Ganesha and later visited the official residences of Chief Minister Eknath Shinde and his deputy Devendra Fadnavis to seek the blessings of Lord Ganesha.

Sources said after arriving at Mumbai airport, the senior BJP leader held a closed-door meeting with Shinde, Fadnavis, Ajit Pawar and NCP leader Praful Patel, where he directed these leaders to remain united for the upcoming Maharashtra state assembly election. The meeting was held for an hour, and the next meeting of alliance partners is scheduled for Delhi.

“Shah also ensured that all alliance partners would get the honourable seats to contest in the state assembly elections. Besides, the alliance partners should reach out to the people with public welfare schemes and programs. The internal survey report was also discussed in the meeting. The respective alliance partners should drop the MLAs who are facing anti-incumbency. The seats will be swapped,” informed a leader who was a part of the meeting, requesting anonymity.

Home Minister Amit Shah offers prayers at ‘Lalbaug Ka Raja’ in Mumbai | PTI

Also, the meeting discussed that the state assembly elections would be a very close contest, and therefore, the person who can win should be given the ticket and fielded, he added.

Winnability is the only criterion when allocating tickets in the elections. The alliance partners were asked to convene a meeting of the respective party ministers, MLA and leaders and strictly warn them not to air anything that would damage the prospect of the alliance in elections. The perception is very important, and Mahayuti should not lose that battle. The reason for the changing constitutions and ending reservations narrative by Oppositions had damaged the BJP and its alliance partners in a big way in the last Lok Sabha elections.

Therefore, minor errors should be avoided, the source went on to say. The meeting, the source said, was informed that the CM face should only be discussed after the election result.

Def vets hail joint command, but with caution

BALA CHAUHAN @ Bengaluru

THE effort to reorganise the country’s armed forces into three theatre commands (TCs) – two land commands for western (mainly Pakistan) in Jaipur, and northern (China) in Lucknow, and a maritime command in Thiruvananthapuram under the joint command of the Chief Defence Staff (CDS) – has largely been hailed by Defence veterans, albeit with caution.

The three services -- Air Force, Army and Navy -- will each get one theatre and the CDS will head operations with the theatre commanders, who will be four-star Generals. “The integration of the commands is imperative and the restructuring that it envisages with the three theatres has merit. However, there is a long way ahead. The aims hereinafter should be four-fold. The restructuring must shorten and systemise the OODA Loop (observation, orientation, decision, and action), which was being affected by the 17 three services command. Secondly, the communication infrastructure has to be made seamless, from tactical to strategic. Thirdly, there ought to be a cultural amalgamation (among the three services) and fourthly, redundancies and duplication need to be addressed, in equipment, training and the like,” said Lt Gen Rakesh Sharma (retd.).

Army veteran Lt Gen DS Hooda (retd.) said the joint theatre command has been a long pending need. “Military in major countries like the US, Russia and China etc are under a unified command. But there are few challenges. While creating the post of CDS in December 2019, the government stated that the CDS ‘will not exercise any military command, including over the three Service Chiefs, so as to be able to provide impartial advice to the political leadership’. The government may have to issue a fresh GO once the joint theatre command comes into play,” said Hooda. “All the three headquarters will have to be reorganised and the role of the three service chiefs will have to be defined. What will happen to the existing commands? An integrated war fighting strategy has to be framed and the communication network will have to be integrated,” said the veteran Army officer.

One of the key “challenges” in an integrated theatre command will be the “division and distribution of assets of the Indian Air Force (IAF) at a time when the number of fighter squadrons is down, from the requisite authorised strength of 42 to 32”, said Air Marshal Narayan Menon (retd.). “I have no doubt that the current leadership of the three services must have discussed intra-services and inter-services issues and come out with a solution. A joint theatre command is a welcome initiative but the other countries, which have a unified command, are self sufficient whereas India still imports much of its weapon systems. We have initiated Atma Nirbhar Bharat but it will take us time to be self-reliant in defence manufacturing,” added Menon.

“Also, what will happen to the Andaman and Nicobar Command is not clear,” said another IAF veteran, who didn’t wish to be named.

“An integrated command looks very good on paper but for us, who have traditionally worked in highly structured silos, it will take some time. We have risen to the occasion of a joint operation like in the 1971 Bangladesh liberation war, but for permanent integrated theatres, there will be administrative and personnel policy issues,” said a naval veteran on condition of anonymity. “Who will write the annual confidential records (ACRs), which decide the future career progress of defence officers?” he asked.

Another Army veteran voiced his concern on joint theaterisation and said that “theaterisation is not going to make us a regional power. It is only going to increase high ranking appointments and add to burdening the budget. We should first work out the ‘one border one post’ concept among other pressing issues, of integration of logistics, communication networks, repair and maintenance of the three services”.

IIT-G student found dead in hostel room

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Guwahati

A student of the Indian Institute of Technology, Guwahati was found dead inside his hostel room on Monday morning. The deceased was a third-year B Tech Computer Science student. He hailed from Uttar Pradesh.

The police said they were probing the case. The body was sent for post-mortem. The IIT-Guwahati mourned the death.

“The well-being of our students is our top priority. We are committed to providing support and resources to help our students navigate the challenges they may face. We encourage our student community to reach out to our support networks,” the institute said in a statement.

The statement added that the IIT-Guwahati was working closely with the police as they were investigating the circumstances surrounding the incident. The institute reiterated its commitment to fostering a safe environment for students.

GANESHA FESTIVAL

27 held for pelting stones at pandal in Surat

AHMEDABAD: In a swift response, Surat police have arrested 27 individuals allegedly involved in stone-pelting at a Ganesh pandal in the Sayedpura area on Sunday night. Eyewitnesses reported that a few children playing near the pandal triggered the unrest. After the children returned home, a group of people arrived at the pandal and began throwing stones before fleeing the scene. Sources indicated that the suspects, who arrived in an auto-rickshaw from a distance, were minors. Following the incident, another group began pelting stones, prompting police to use teargas and lathis to disperse the crowd. The news spread rapidly, and within minutes, hundreds of people gathered outside the Sayedpura police station, surrounding it in protest. The crowd, which was reportedly singing Ganapati songs, made it challenging for the police to manage the situation. By midnight, six youths had been apprehended.

22-ft-tall idol falls on damaged road in Gwalior

BHOPAL: A potholed road caused the fall of a 22-ft Ganesha idol in the heart of Gwalior on Sunday night. The mishap, which reportedly hurt two persons in the procession accompanying the idol for installation, left the tall idol into pieces, just before it's installation at the pandal in the adjoining Khallasipura locality. The two injured persons were reportedly discharged from hospital after primary treatment. Enraged by the incident and total damage to the idol, the devotees who formed the procession along with local residents staged major protest at the road in Shinde ki Chhawani-Nawab Sahab ka Kuwa, demanding action against those responsible for the big pot hole which allegedly triggered the idol's fall. Denying the allegations of the Ganesh Puja club members about no police escort accompanying the idol procession, additional SP (ASP-Gwalior) Akhilesh Renwal said, “Adequate police security was there with the procession. We're looking into what exactly caused the tall idol to get imbalanced and collapse.”

Cluster bombs killed over 1,000 in Ukraine

GENEVA

Ukrainian explosive experts pull out a cluster missile fragment from a damaged house after a Russian strike in Kharkiv on Sunday | AFP

MORE than 1,000 people have been killed or wounded by cluster munitions in Ukraine since Russia launched its war, a monitor said on Monday, urging all countries to ban the weapons.

Since Russia began its invasion of its western neighbour in February 2022, Ukraine has registered the highest number of recorded annual cluster munition casualties in the world, the Cluster Munition Coalition (CMC) said in its annual report. It said cluster bombs had been used by both sides in Ukraine and the weapons had killed and wounded more than 1,000 people there since the war began.

The vast majority of casualties were registered in 2022.

But the report said the figure for 2023 was probably a dramatic underestimate. Cluster munitions can be dropped from planes or fired from artillery before exploding in mid-air and scattering bomblets over a wide area. They pose a lasting threat since many fail to explode on impact, effectively acting as landmines that can explode years later.

In Ukraine, more farmland is now contaminated by cluster munition remnants than by landmines, the report said.

Before the war, Ukraine had registered no cluster munition casualties for several years.

But it recorded 916 in 2022 and it accounted for nearly half the 219 casualties recorded worldwide last year.

Loren Persi, head of the impact team on the project, told reporters the decrease in registered casualties between 2022 and 2023 "unfortunately may not really mean fewer people will suffer because of use in this period".

He pointed out that the team knew of "many" such attacks in Ukraine last year where no casualties were recorded, but where casualties may very well have occurred.

If the impact of all cluster munition attacks claimed by Russian media or ministries were verified, "that would be close to 900 casualties" in 2023 as well, he said.

With both Russia and Ukraine continuing to use cluster munitions, the report said it was not possible to systematically document and attribute which side was responsible for which attacks or casualties.

The report warned that new uses of cluster munitions by countries like Russia and Ukraine were undermining international efforts to ban them entirely.

Neither country is among the 112 states that are party to the 2008 Convention on Cluster Munitions, which prohibits the use, transfer, production and storage of cluster bombs. AFP

Germany extends border controls

Berlin: Germany on Monday moved to tighten border controls and curb irregular migrant inflows after a series of suspected Islamist attacks sparked public anger and piled pressure on the government. Temporary controls would be extended to Germany's land borders with all nine of its neighbours, the interior ministry said in a statement. The increased controls would limit migration and "protect against the acute dangers posed by Islamist terrorism and serious crime", Interior Minister Nancy Faeser said at a press conference.

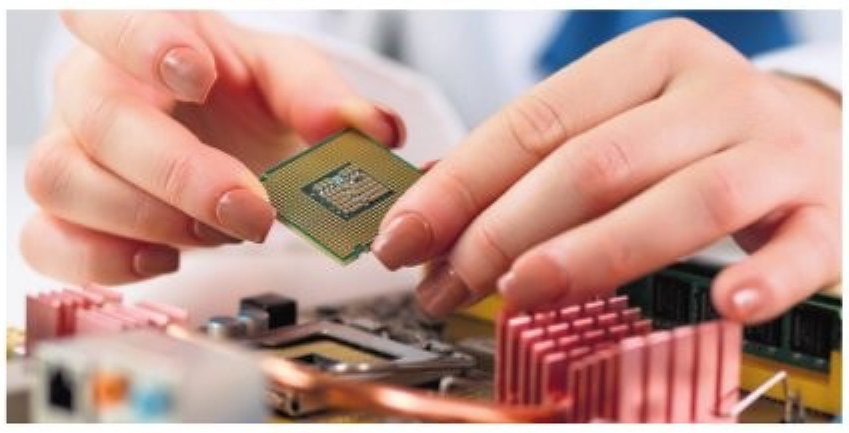
PLI scheme for chip: 20 requests pending

Country is likely to have over 10 semiconductor units within next decade to meet domestic, global demand, says official

RAKESH KUMAR @ New Delhi

NEARLY 20 applications are pending with the Ministry of Electronics and Information Technology for evaluation and approval for semiconductor under the production linked incentive scheme, a senior government official said on Monday.

As per Akash Tripathi, CEO of the India Semiconductor Mission, the country is expected to have more than 10 semiconductor units within the next decade to meet its domestic and global demand. "India should have at least 10 semiconductor units including fabs to meet the demand for chips both in India and worldwide," said Tripathi.



The government announced an incentive of ₹76,000 crore to develop semiconductor ecosystem in 2021. It has so far approved several semiconductor projects including a chip fabrication unit in Dholera, Gujarat, and four chip packaging units: three in Sanand, Gujarat, and one in Morigaon, Assam. The cumulative investment in these projects is ₹1.50 lakh crore.

As the capital announced for the scheme is nearing exhaustion, the government is expected to announce a second tranche of incentives for semiconductor soon. Tripathi mentioned that if necessary, the government will increase the allocation to develop the semiconductor ecosystem in the country.

"When the mission was started, it was anticipated that at least 10 years of support would be needed until we become mature. If the funds need to be expanded, we will do it," said Tripathi.

The government recently approved a ₹3,307 crore proposal for an outsourced assembly and testing (OSAT) unit by Mysuru-based Kaynes Semicon. The OSAT unit will be set up in Sanand, Gujarat, with a total capacity of 6.3 million chips per day.

Meanwhile, the Maharashtra government announced that it had approved a $10 billion chip plant to be jointly established by Israel's Tower Semiconductor and the Adani Group. Regarding this, Tripathi said Israel's Tower Semiconductor has submitted its application, but the Ministry of Electronics and Information Technology (MeitY) has requested more details including information about its technology partner and financial model.

US partners with India Semiconductor Mission

US has announced a collaboration with India's Semiconductor Mission to explore opportunities for expanding and diversifying global chip ecosystem. The partnership aims to create a resilient, secure, and sustainable semiconductor value chain worldwide. US' $500 mn chip fund initiative falls under US International Tech Security and Innovation (ITSI). ENS

Apple unveils iPhone 16 series with advanced AI

RAKESH KUMAR @ New Delhi

APPLE launched its highly anticipated iPhone 16 series on Monday, with a focus on artificial intelligence (AI).

Its proprietary Apple Intelligence technology is integrated into all the devices in the series, enabling features such as transcription, object recognition, and enhanced camera capabilities. The technology will suggest the best spot to take a picture and even guide photographer on how to prepare venue for optimal results.

Apple has equipped all devices in the series with its latest A18 chipset and iOS18 operating system.

Premium iPhone 16 Pro and Pro Max boast of great displays, measuring 6.3 and 6.9 inches, respectively, and are priced at $999 and $1,199, respectively. The standard iPhone 16 model offers a range of features including camera control, Apple Intelligence, A18 Chipset, and a 6.1-inch screen. iPhone 16 Plus has a larger 6.7-inch screen.

For the first time this year, Apple has begun producing its devices — iPhone Pro and Pro Max — in India. Last year, it produced its basic iPhone 15 models in India. Currently, India contributes 14% to the US tech giant's overall production, emerging as a key hub for its exports. In 2021, the first year Apple's contract manufacturers made iPhones in India, there was a delay of a few months. The made-in-India iPhone 13 reached global outlets a few months after its launch.

Last year, Apple launched iPhone 15 simultaneously from Indian and Chinese factories, but made-in-India devices were available in India on the first day of sale only. It took several days to reach global outlets. This year, made-in-India iPhone 16 series will be available to consumers in various countries within the first few days of retail launch, with shipments starting on Sept 10. Apple's contract manufacturers — Foxconn Hon Hai, Wistron (now owned by Tata), and Pegatron—produced iPhones worth ₹1.20 lakh crore in India in FY24, of which devices worth ₹85,000 crore were exported.

Monitoring airfares ahead of festive season, says Naidu

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

UNION Civil Aviation Minister Rammohan Naidu on Monday said that his ministry is monitoring airfares daily and asking airlines not to exploit passengers during the festival season when demand tends to surge.

"We are in constant communication with airline operators, advising them to maintain reasonable airfares," said Naidu on the sidelines of a FICCI event.

Naidu added that airfare determination is market-driven, making it impossible to impose a cap.

"So far, we have not observed any unreasonable fare increases…If unexpected spikes occur, we will take appropriate action," added the minister.

The minister also said his ministry is looking at the issues being faced by private carrier SpiceJet. "We are looking at SpiceJet... with the demand we have, we need more airlines to operate. So we are trying to have a balance and address the problems and (ensure the) airline runs properly," he said.

Cash-starved SpiceJet is grappling with multiple financial and legal issues. Adding to its trouble, the Directorate General of Civil Aviation (DGCA) has placed the airline under enhanced surveillance that will entail increased spot checks and night surveillance to ensure the safety of the airline's operations.

The minister also said that the regional connectivity UDAN (Ude Desh ka Aam Naagrik) scheme will be extended for 10 more years. The regional connectivity scheme is to end in 2027.

ED clean chit to Burmans; FIR against Saluja

DIPAK MONDAL @ New Delhi

IN a major indictment of Religare Enterprises (REL) chairman Rashmi Saluja, Enforcement Directorate has filed an FIR accusing her of criminal conspiracy to derail the takeover of the REL by Burman family and obfuscate the detection of illegal gains made by her through acquisition of ESOPs of Care Health Insurance Ltd.

The ED has alleged that Rashmi Saluja and other senior officials of Religare Enterprises motivated one of the shareholders of REL –Vaibhav Jalinder Gawali – to file an FIR in Matunga Police station in Mumbai against alleging misappropriation of the assets/ properties of Religare Enterprise by Malvinder Mohan Singh and Shivinder Mohan Singh (former directors of REL) in connivance with Burman Family. Burman Family holds 25% in REL allowing them to go for an open offer to acquire 26% more shares in the company.

The ED FIR alleges that the complainant lacked in-depth understanding of the facts pertaining to the case and that he was given prepared material by senior officials of REL to lodge the FIR. Enforcement Directorate investigation reveals that Gawali was paid ₹2 lakh by the REL officials to file the FIR against the Burman family.

Enforcement Directorate says that its investigation revealed that the current officials of Religare Enterprises would have interest in lodging the FIR to derail the proposed takeover of the company and its subsidiaries to obfuscate the detection of illegal gains accrued to them through acquisition of Employee Stock Options (ESOPs) of Care Health Insurance Limited (CHIL).

Care Health Insurance is the insurance arm of Religare Enterprises. The board of the CHIL had approved granting 2.3 crore shares to Rashmi Saluja as ESOPs at ₹45.32 a piece. However, the Insurance regulator – Insurance Regulatory and Development Authority of India (IRDAI) – had rejected the ESOPs granted to Rashmi Saluja.

The Board of Care Health Insurance in August 2022 again approved the grant of 2.7 crore shares as ESOPs to Saluja again at the same price of ₹45.32. In the same meeting, the board approved issuance of rights shares at ₹110 a piece.

Enforcement Directorate says REL money was used to buy shares at higher price in order to fulfill the criteria for the vesting of ESOPS without paying attention to the price disparities.

'She asked Gawali to file FIR against Singh brothers'

ED has alleged that Rashmi Saluja and other senior officials of Religare Enterprises motivated one of the shareholders of REL –Vaibhav Jalinder Gawali – to file an FIR in Matunga Police station in Mumbai against alleging misappropriation of the assets/properties of Religare Enterprise by Malvinder Mohan Singh and Shivinder Mohan Singh (former directors of REL) in connivance with Burman Family.

No problem with giving subsidies on EVs: Gadkari

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

NITIN Gadkari said on Monday that he has no problem with the Finance Ministry and the Heavy Industry Ministry giving subsidies on electric vehicles (EVs). He, however, added that incentives may no longer be needed in two years as EVs will reach cost parity with internal combustion engine vehicles.

"I am not against subsidies for EVs. If the finance minister and industries minister want to provide more support, I have no issue with that," said Gadkari at the 64th annual session of the Automotive Component Manufacturers Association of India (ACMA).

His fresh statement came days after he said there is no need for further subsidies to push EV adoption. This has raised questions among automakers who have been asking the Centre to launch the third phase of the FAME scheme. Gadkari criticised carmakers who are yet to launch EVs and said how automobile giants in India have missed the EV bus. Speaking at the same event, Union Heavy Industries Minister H D Kumaraswamy assured EV makers that subsidies would continue. He said the third phase of Faster Adoption and Manufacturing of Electric (and Hybrid) (FAME) vehicles will be announced in two months.

Kumaraswamy said the Electric Mobility Promotion Scheme (EMPS) will be extended beyond its scheduled end in September 2024 and that it will continue until the launch of FAME-III. Minister for Commerce & Industry Piyush Goyal asked Indian auto component manufacturers to achieve an export target of $100 billion by 2030.

Delta shifts India HQ to B'luru from Gurugram, opens R&D centre in city

UMA KANNAN @ Bengaluru

TAIWAN-based Delta has moved its India headquarters from Gurugram to Bengaluru, and also inaugurated a new Global Research and Development (R&D) centre in the city on Monday.

The power and energy management company committed $500 million investments in India a few years ago. Delta Electronics India MD Niranjan Nayak told TNIE that 15-20% of this amount has gone into setting up of the new R& D centre. On moving its headquarters to Bengaluru, he said, "Since we have R&D centre here and also have come up with a large factory (Krishnagiri), from the administration point of view, it will be easier for all the core and corporate functions to be based out of Bengaluru."

He added that all business functions will stay in Gurugram, and "we have some other additional functions that will come here (Bengaluru) and it will be easier for us to manage R& D, business activity across the country as well as the Krishnagiri factory."

The R& D centre, currently employs 300 engineers, is expected to employ up to 750 over the next three years. New Delta India headquarters building is likely to employ 3,000 employees over the next five years.

Delta operates in power electronics, automation, mobility and Infrastructure categories and the India MD said there are a lot of growth opportunities in these areas in India. Apart from designing, its products also cater to other countries as well.

"In energy infrastructure, we are developing renewable energy solutions locally in India. When we look at electric vehicles, two-wheelers are a significant number in India, we are developing power supplies and charges for these new electric two-wheelers," he added.

On EV charging infrastructure, he said there are teething troubles but then there are good policies by the government, industries are working together to address these challenges. He is confident of the way it is shaping up in the country. Benjamin Lin, President of Delta Electronics India, said the new R&D centre will be a global centre for Delta and will focus on to support local for local initiative. Delta will strengthen its capabilities in developing smart, energy-saving high-voltage power management solutions for telecom, data centres, EV charging, and energy storage applications, as well as IoT and AI-related software.

> Since we have R&D centre here and also have come up with a large factory, from the administration point of view, it will be easier for all the core and corporate functions to be based out of Bengaluru

Liminal says ₹2K crore hack originated from WazirX side

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU@ Bengaluru

SINGAPORE-headquartered Liminal Custody, which is an estranged security partner of WazirX, on Monday claimed that as per the audit findings, the breach might have occured from the crypto exchange side.

A cyberattack on WazirX recently led to the theft of about ₹2,000 crore worth of funds.

Liminal said audit and forensics company Grant Thornton has conducted a comprehensive review of the Web Application including the front end, User Interface (UI), and backend of Liminal's infrastructure, and concluded that there was no evidence that the attack originated on Liminal's Web Application.

"In the wake of the security incident on July 18, 2024 involving one of our Singapore customers, our Singapore entity has been conducting extensive reviews to thoroughly investigate the matter. Our two-pronged approach involved inhouse examinations as well as engaging renowned, independent third-party auditors to conduct comprehensive reviews of our infrastructure," it said.

Liminal said preliminary reports identified a mismatch between the data shared by Liminal and the payload received from the client's systems. "This indicated two potential possibilities: A potential compromise either at the client's end or within our frontend systems... We now have multiple reviews which conclude that Liminal's front-end, back-end and user interface (UI) are found with no evidence of any compromise or vulnerabilities related to the transaction workflow."

Bajaj Housing public issue fully subscribed within 4 hrs

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Mumbai

THE ₹6,560 croe primary share sale from the Bajaj group — the first since a group went public in May 2008 —Bajaj Housing Finance IPO fully subscribed within four hours of the bids opening on Monday.

The portions reserved for non-institutional wealthy investors or nigh networth individuals as well as retail already oversubscribed their reserved portion within hours of the bids opening, according to information available with the exchanges.

Bajaj Housing had collected ₹1,758 crore from anchor investors on Friday. The initial share sale will conclude on September 11 and has ₹3,560 crore in fresh offering and the rest in offer for sale by promoter Bajaj Finance. The IPO received bids for over ₹85.20 crore shares against the 72.75 crore shares on offer. The shares are commanding a grey market premium of ₹50-51 per share, signaling a premium of over 70% in the unregulated market. The issuer has fixed the price band at ₹66-70.

After the success of rival Ola Electric's ₹6,145 crore IPO last month, electric two-wheeler maker Ather Energy has filed for a ₹4,500 crore public issue.

Hyundai focuses on mid-large SUV segment

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

AFTER solidifying its presence in the compact and mid-size sports utility vehicle (SUV) segment, Hyundai Motor India (HMIL) sees a bigger play in mid-large segment as it launched the new Alcazar at a starting price of ₹14.99 lakh for the petrol variant and ₹15.99 lakh for the diesel variant. The carmaker feels Alcazar's aggressive price and best-in-class fuel efficiency separate it from other products in the segment.

"This kind of price range will open a new segment. At present, the mid-large SUV segment is growing and we are hopeful that the new launch will increase our presence in the segment…The new Alcazar is also suited for Creta SUV customers who are looking to upgrade," said Tarun Garg, Whole-time Director and Chief Operating Officer of HMIL.

The mid-large SUV segment, which has other 6-7 seater options from Tata Motors and Mahindra & Mahindra, contributes 14.5% to total SUV sales and 7-7.5% to total passenger vehicle (PV) sales. On a monthly basis, this segment sees sales of 20,000 units. Hyundai, with Alcazar SUV, is relatively a smaller player with about a 10% share. Amid concerns over growing inventory at dealer showrooms, Hyundai said its inventory levels are low at 4 weeks. Garg said moderation in PV sales is a normal occurrence given industry grew 23% and 8% in last two years.

"We all talk about how the CAGR has been 5% for the last five years. So when you see a growth of 23% and 8% year-on-year, some kind of moderation is natural. I don't think we should worry too much about this," said Garg. So far in calendar year 2024, HMIL sales have grown by 2-2.5% year-on-year.

Hyundai said its SUV portfolio accounts for 67% of its overall sales, surpassing the industry average of 53%. The company's most popular SUV Creta, whose latest version was introduced earlier this year, has already surpassed the milestone of one-lakh-unit sales mark.

Inventory levels are low at four weeks

Hyundai, with Alcazar SUV, is relatively smaller player with about 10% share. Amid concerns over growing inventory at dealer showrooms, Hyundai said its inventory levels are low at 4 weeks. Garg said fall in PV sales is a normal occurrence given industry grew 23% and 8% in the last two years. Mid-large SUV segment, which has other 6-7 seater options from Tata Motors and M & M, contributes 14.5% to SUV sales

Nissanka hero in SL's 4th Test win on England soil

Sri Lanka earned their only fourth Test victory on English soil after an unbeaten century by opener Pathum Nissanka helped the visitors secure an eight-wicket win in the third and final match of the series against England on Monday. England won the series 2-1 but missed out on a second clean sweep of their home summer, having beaten West Indies 3-0.

PICS: SRI LOGANATHAN VELMURUGAN

GITA WISDOM GUIDES THIS ARJUN TOO

Ahead of the Chess Olympiad, which begins in Budapest on Tuesday, Erigaisi talks about his journey, goals and more...

A CRUSHING positional victory without giving any chance to a strong opponent hailing from the top-seeded US and with it, waltzing past the 2700 Elo mark. That's how the last Chess Olympiad, held in Tamil Nadu's Mamallapuram in 2022, ended for Warangal boy Arjun Erigaisi. While Arjun bagged an individual silver medal on board 3, his India A team finished fourth, narrowly missing a medal. A couple of years older and a much improved chess player now, Arjun — currently the world No.4 and India's No.1 chess player ahead of Gukesh, R Praggnanandhaa and Viswanathan Anand — would hope to do even better in the Budapest Chess Olympiad that begins on Tuesday.

Speaking at TNIE's latest edition of Hyderabad Dialogues before the event, the 20-year-old prodigy from Warangal spoke about how he loves team tournaments and the camaraderie that would help India in the upcoming Olympiad. Unlike the last Olympiad where he set a target of 8.5/11 and went on to achieve it, this Arjun is more mature and realises that it would only increase the pressure on him. He's not just better at chess, he has learnt meditation techniques now.

Asked how he ensures he is calm while playing an intense game, he tells TNIE, "It is like what Lord Krishna told Arjuna in the Mahabharata. You just give your best and whatever will happen … will happen." Reflecting on his tough loss to Pragg in the 2023 World Cup quarterfinals, he says that a loss used to bother him for days and affect the next game too. "But now, when there is a bad outcome, I do feel bad for an hour but move on after that," he notes. Excerpts:

On smooth victories since 2022 Olympiad

There should be many but one I can recall is a game against [Vladislav] Kovalev in the 2023 Sharjah Masters. Not only was it smooth but it was also aggressive, that is one of my favourite games.

On 2018 U-16 C'ship

Back then, I was quite afraid of some players. I didn't want to be on board No.1 and I thought it would give me better chances if I play on board 3. But he (Srinath Narayanan) insisted that I play on board 1 since I was clearly the strongest player in the team. Like he thought, it worked out quite well. I scored +5 on board 1 and the others managed to do well and we secured silver. I defeated Nordibek [Abdusattorov] and [Andrey] Esipenko.

On his next target

No, I do not set targets anymore. When you achieve the target it looks nice but the thing is, the target pushes one too much for a win and that leads to losses.

On role of captain

The players are at such a high level that there is not much to teach us. The captain is more of a manager and also takes care of the team camaraderie. We do have a good team camaraderie and that will help us play well as a team in the upcoming Olympiad.

On maintaining focus during intense games

This is one of the toughest things. It affected me last year, the World Cup quarterfinal against Pragg [where Arjun lost in a sudden death blitz game after being tied in the classical portion and three sets of rapid and blitz tiebreaks]. I so badly wanted to qualify and it affected my nerves. After this, I have come to a realisation that it is best if I care less. I have done the inner engineering [course at Isha] for that. It has helped me greatly.

On what he tells himself games

It is a bit like what Lord Krishna told Arjuna in the Mahabharata. You just give your best and whatever will happen … will happen.

On how he practices detachment from the results

Ah, it is easier said than done. When I lost a game in a tournament in China, I was angry but recovered in an hour. When it came to the next game against Anish Giri, the loss had no effect on me and I won. In fact, another time when I lost in a tournament, I was so normal about it that it shocked my friends.

On any advice for chess parents

To all the parents out there, if there is pressure, it only makes the players worse. If the player is able to play freely, then that is when they can give their absolute best. Putting any pressure wouldn't have any positive impact. If at all, it would have only a negative impact.

On if Gukesh is the favourite against Liren

Two-three months ago, I was very certain that Gukesh was going to win because Ding was playing at a very poor level. But now, in the Sinquefield Cup, although Ding is not doing great, his quality has been pretty good. If he continues in this direction and improves his quality, it will become a 50-50 match.

On his post Olympiad plans

After the Olympiad, I am playing in the Global Chess League in London in October. Magnus, Hikaru, Pragg, Nihal are playing. It is one of the best events, it is a rapid team tournament. After that, I am playing in a knockout tournament in London, that's a classical tournament. Then I am playing in a European club tournament.

For Worlds, Bajrang moves court over NADA suspension

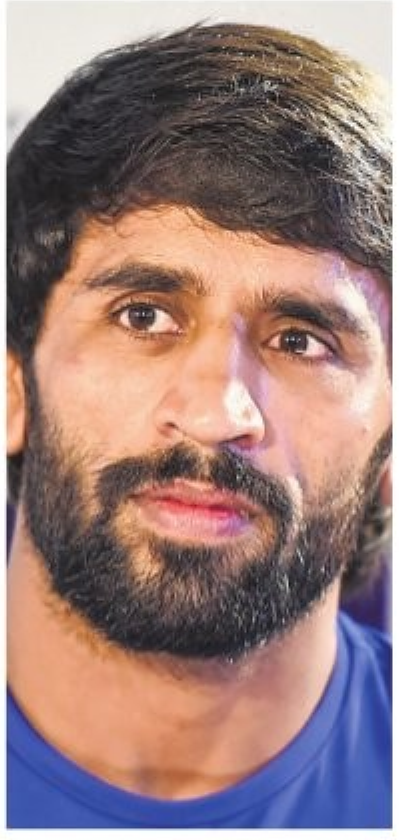
INDRANEEL DAS/FIROZ MIRZA @ Chennai

WRESTLER Bajrang Punia has approached the Delhi High Court to quash the National Anti-Doping Agency's notice of charge and provisional suspension dated 21.06.2024 for apparent 'refusal' to give urine samples during the selection trials organised by the now defunct ad-hoc committee at Sonepat in March. He has approached the Delhi High Court for an urgent hearing on the ground that he would be seeking participation at the World Championships in Albania next month.

Vidushpat Singhania, who is representing Bajrang, said that they were requesting the Delhi High Court to quash the NADA provisional suspension order and also sought an enquiry into the use of expired kit for sample collection last year. "Another point is why NADA has not filed its response to Bajrang explanation since 11 July 2024 and not given a hearing to Bajrang," asked the lawyer. The lawyer said that the wrestler would be seeking to participate at the World Championships and hence the request for urgent hearing. The wrestler has termed the suspension arbitrary.

"…the Respondent (NADA) again sought to arbitrarily charge the athlete with an anti-doping rule violation by serving a Notice of Charge dated 21.06.2024 and provisionally suspended him for the second time…"

Interestingly, the petitioner pointed out that a notification dated 23.04.2024 that suspended him for alleged apparent anti-doping rule violation for refusing to submit to sample collection during the Wrestling Selection Trials was revoked by a NADA hearing panel on the ground that formal notice of charge was not filed.



The NADA in June filed the formal Notice of Charge and said: you are formally charged with the following ADRV (anti-doping rule violation): Article 2.3 (evading, refusing or failing to submit sample collection by an athlete.)

The lawyer also said that the wrestler requested for an early hearing after the June provisional suspension but there was no reply from NADA's part. The Tokyo 2020 Olympic bronze medallist, who recently joined Congress, levelled serious allegations of negligent and illegal conduct against NADA. The application pointed out the use of expired kit to collect urine samples on 13.12 2023 and has sought an enquiry into it.

The petition also highlighted another notice the wrestler received but this time for an alleged missed test. The NADA "seemingly in a bid to harass the Petitioner, issued notice, negligently alleging the commission of an apparent anti-doping rule violation under 2.4 of the NADR for three (3) whereabouts failure by the Petitioner within a 12-month period". This was later withdrawn after the petitioner sought explanations.

However, what seemed interesting in the whole application is the intention to compete at next month's World Championships. As has been the norm, the competitions are held only in non-Olympic weight categories during the Olympic year and Bajrang usually competes in 65kg, an Olympic weight category.

The decorated wrestler last competed in an international event during the 2022 Asian Games in Hangzhou, China in October 2023 wherein he lost the bronze medal bout. He then took part in the March selection trials. The trials were held to select the team for the Olympic Games Qualifiers. It needs to be seen how the Wrestling Federation of India reacts to the development.

"We will organise selection trials to pick the team for the World Championships. Dates have not been finalised but it can be organised in the first half of the next month. Criteria to compete in the trials will be out soon. The WFI had organised nationals in Pune while the ad-hoc committee held it in Jaipur. Medallists from those nationals apart from Federation Cup and U-23 nationals podium finishers may gain eligibility for the trials. A final criteria will be drafted keeping recent events in mind," a WFI official told this daily. Notably, Bajrang had not competed in any of these events.

The application says, "The Senior World Wrestling Championships shall be held in Tirana, Albania, from 28th to 31st October 2024. However, the provisional suspension imposed by the Respondent shall prevent the Petitioner from competing in the said event, owing to which the Petitioner shall be forced to retire from the sport of wrestling."

Ronaldo shines with late goal for Portugal

AGENCIES @London

CRISTIANO Ronaldo is showing just why Portugal is persisting with him at the age of 39. Make that a record-extending 132 international goals for the five-time world player of the year after Ronaldo came on as a halftime substitute and slotted home an 88th-minute winner for Portugal in their 2-1 victory over Scotland in the Nations League on Sunday.

Minutes earlier, Ronaldo had struck both posts within a matter of seconds. Indeed, he was an ever-present danger in Lisbon, demonstrating he is far from finished as a force in international soccer ' especially against the likes of a struggling Scotland. Ronaldo failed to score at all in five games at the recent European Championship, but Portugal coach Robert Martinez has kept faith with the country's greatest ever player and is reaping the rewards.

On Thursday, Ronaldo scored his 900th career goal ' spanning games for club and country ' in a 2-1 win over Croatia. The quest for 1,000 began three days later and he didn't disappoint, despite only playing one half. In stoppage time, a spectator got on the field and attempted to get a selfie with Ronaldo, but was stopped by security. That happened repeatedly at Euro 2024. Scotland went ahead through Scott McTominay in the seventh minute before an equalizer from the edge of the area by Bruno Fernandes in the 54th.

Luka Modric turns 39 on Monday but, like Ronaldo, remains as integral as ever for his country. The Real Madrid midfielder again demonstrated his enduring quality by clipping home an exquisite free kick in Croatia's 1-0 win over Poland.

ACT Hockey: India thrash Japan 5-1

AGENCIES @ Hulunbuir (China)

SUKHJEET Singh struck a brace as defending champions India thrashed Japan 5-1 in a league match to notch up their second consecutive win in the men's Hero Asian Champions Trophy hockey tournament here on Monday. Sukhjeet scored in the second and 60th minutes while Abhishek (3rd), Sanjay (17th) and Uttam Singh (54th) were the other Indian goal getters. Matsumoto Kazumasa pulled one back for Japan in the 41st minute.

Four-time champions India, who had beaten China 3-0 in their opening round-robin league match on Sunday, got two penalty corners as against five of Japan. India were quick to get the lead with Sukhjeet scoring a brilliant field goal in the second minute of the match itself. It was Sanjay, hovering on the right side of the circle, lobbed in a cross that was swiftly deflected by Sukhjeet. India extended the lead to 2-0 in the next minute with Abhishek dribbling past several Japanese defenders before rounding off the goalkeeper to score.

Harmanpreet Singh-led India will meet last-edition's runners-up Malaysia on Wednesday.

No play on day one of NZ-Afghanistan Test

AGENCIES @Noida

NO play was possible on the opening day of the one-off Test between New Zealand and Afghanistan due to a wet outfield here on Monday.

The match officials conducted multiple inspections through the day but the conditions were not fit enough for players to take the field. There was no rain on Monday but the ground, lacking a modern drainage system, has has been impacted by heavy rain through the last week. With rain and thunderstorms forecast throughout the week, it remains to be seen how many days of the Test is impacted. This is the first-ever Test between New Zealand against Afghanistan who got their Test status in 2017. Afghanistan, who have played 10 Tests so far, have endured defeats in their last three matches against Bangladesh, Sri Lanka and Ireland. For New Zealand, this will be their first Test since March and it will kick off a busy couple of months in the subcontinent ending with a three-Test series against India.

US OPEN

Weeks after doping exoneration, Sinner wins second Grand Slam title

AP @ New York

JANNIK Sinner started slowly at the US Open, dropping the first set he played after being exonerated in a doping case no one knew about until shortly before play began at Flushing Meadows.

If that episode initially hung over him during the tournament, Sinner was able to put it aside while on court. The No. 1-ranked Sinner beat Taylor Fritz 6-3, 6-4, 7-5 with his typical relentless baseline game to win the men's championship at Arthur Ashe Stadium on Sunday, less than three weeks after word emerged of the Italian's two positive tests for a trace amount of an anabolic steroid. "It was, and it's still, a little bit in my mind," Sinner said. "It's not that it's gone, but when I'm on court, I try to focus (on) the game, I try to handle the situation the best possible way. … It was not easy, that's for sure, but … I tried to stay focused, which I guess I've done a great job, mentally staying there every point I play."

This 2-hour, 15-minute victory gave him a second Grand Slam trophy — the other was at the Australian Open in January — and prevented No. 12 Fritz from ending the major title drought for American men that has lasted 21 years. Andy Roddick's triumph at Flushing Meadows in 2003 was the last Slam title for a man from the United States. The last before Fritz, a 26-year-old from California, to even contest a final at one of the four biggest tournaments in tennis also was Roddick, who lost to Roger Federer at Wimbledon in 2009. "I know we've been waiting for a champion for a long time," Fritz said, "so I'm sorry I couldn't get it done this time."

Jannik Sinner (in pic) beat Taylor Fritz 6-3, 6-4, 7-5 to win the US Open title | AFP

Still, this tournament was a success in many ways for US tennis, with two women and two men from the country all in the semifinals for the first time at a major since the 2003 US Open. Jessica Pegula reached the women's final before losing to Aryna Sabalenka of Belarus.

Sinner improved to 55-5 with a tour-high six titles in 2024. That includes a 35-2 mark on hard courts. He's the first man since Guillermo Vilas in 1977 to win his first two Grand Slam trophies in the same season.

This was the first year since 2002 in which no member of the Big Three — Novak Djokovic, Rafael Nadal or the retired Federer — won at least one major. Instead, Sinner, who is 23, and Carlos Alcaraz, 21, split the four Slam titles. "Nice to see new champions," Sinner said. "Nice to see new rivalries."

The world found out on August 20 that he tested positive twice in an eight-day span during March for a substance sold in an over-the-counter product in Italy, but he was cleared because his use was ruled unintentional — his defense was that the steroid entered his system via a massage from a team member he later fired. While some players wondered whether Sinner was accorded special treatment, most believed he wasn't trying to dope. And the US Open's fans never gave him a hard time. "You can understand why people are upset about it. In anti-doping, it sounds so ridiculous," said Travis Tygart, CEO of the US Anti-Doping Agency, which wasn't involved in the case.

Mental health in children is a growing concern, with about 1 in 5 kids worldwide experiencing a mental disorder. Anxiety and depression are the most common issues, often linked to academic pressure, social media, and family stress

LOCKDOWN EFFECT

RISE IN ANXIETY, MENTAL HEALTH ISSUES IN KIDS

SINDUJA JANE @ Chennai

SUDHIR* was 14-years-old when the Covid-19 pandemic struck. For an ardent cricket fan like him, the lockdown was a big blow. The boy, who used to rush to the playground with a bat and ball whenever he found an opportunity, got hooked on to online and video games. He stopped playing cricket as access to playgrounds was denied for months on end, and slowly turned away from studies. Whenever he was denied access to the Internet, his anxiety levels rose violently and he often became angry.

This is not an isolated case. Like him, several children continue to suffer from myriad mental health problems, though it's been three years since the pandemic passed by and schools have started functioning regularly. Many of these issues have their roots tied to the lockdown, and the increased dependence on the internet for education and leisure.

Doctors and psychiatric clinics are seeing a manifold increase in cases, especially among children and adolescents. Studies show that the number of children with mental health problems has more than doubled since the pandemic.

Teachers report that children suffer from mental health problems including inattention, clinginess, emotional difficulties, and feelings of isolation. There has also been an increase in use of social media and substances, said Dr Pratima Murthy, director, National Institute of Mental Health and Neurosciences (NIMHANS).

Sudden disruption in routine

Children who were supposed to spend the whole day at school with friends and teachers, or engage in outdoor activities suddenly found themselves locked up at home, with an increase in screen time including online classes meetings and social media. Personal attention from teachers suddenly disappeared.

Children who saw their parents or carers isolated, ill, or sometimes dead did not know how to handle the stressful situations, and subsequently ended up with bouts of anxiety, depression, or post-traumatic stress disorder. Many are yet to recover, though, on the surface, life has returned to normal in the last three years.

"Spending quality time with parents, one-to-one interactions with teachers at school, and socialising can go a long way in preserving the mental well-being of children and adolescents," said Dr Aakash Agrawal, consultant (neurology), Manipal Hospital, Bhubaneswar.

But children should know the difference between real and virtual life. "Even after three months of treatment, Sudhir did not get better and couldn't match his pre-Covid level in studies and sports. Making friends in real life is better than making virtual friendships. Children are struggling to get back to offline classes and in-person relationships," says Dr Lakshmi Vijayakumar, founder of Sneha.

As young as five

According to Dr Neethu S, a senior resident specialising in psychiatry and behavioural medicine at Amrita Hospital, Kochi, psychiatry outpatient clinics have seen a significant rise in children presenting with anxiety disorders in recent years.

"While biological factors play a role, environmental influences like academic pressure, excessive screen time, the growing trend of digital connectivity, and familial stressors like parental conflicts, peer comparison, and bullying are noted to amplify stress levels in children.

These often contribute to fear of missing out (FOMO) and feelings of inadequacy in vulnerable children. They are susceptible to generalised anxiety disorder, separation anxiety, social anxiety, panic disorder, etc. The residual effects of Covid-19 have further disrupted routines and peer interactions. Creating a supportive environment at home and school is crucial in managing these effectively," she said.

Children as young as five-years-old are showing anxiety symptoms, largely due to a change in lifestyle, said Dr Meena J, senior consultant (pediatrics & neonatology), Aakash Healthcare, Delhi.

"Post-pandemic, we have seen a surge in the prevalence of mental health disease in children, in which anxiety remains the most common issue. Its prevalence varies from 2%–20%. However, most of the cases remain undiagnosed because they don't reach the healthcare facilities. The adolescents are more prone to anxiety disorder considering the physiological and psychological changes they go through, which include generalised anxiety, separation anxiety, social phobia, and OCDs," she said.

"However, it's challenging to spot symptoms of anxiety in very young children, which often go unnoticed even by parents. They may exhibit non-specific pain in the body, abdominal pain, headaches, poor school performance, not eating well, among others. These conditions may be attributable to anxiety, which can be diagnosed if we delve deeper into the symptoms," she added.

Dr Parthasarathy on Dementia

Consultant, department of neurology, Apollo Adlux Hospital, Ernakulam

Myth: Dementia will only affect old people

Fact: Dementia usually affects people over 64 years. Young-onset dementia, also known as early-onset dementia, is any form of dementia diagnosed in someone under the age of 65. Certain types of dementia like frontotemporal dementia, familial Alzheimer's disease, and Downs syndrome can affect people below 65.

Myth: Dementia and Alzheimer's are the same

Fact: Dementia is a general term for a group of symptoms that affect cognitive abilities, memory, thinking, and behaviour. Alzheimer's disease is a specific type of dementia that is a progressive neurodegenerative disorder that primarily affects memory and cognitive function.

Myth: Alzheimer's disease is part of ageing

Fact: The risk of Alzheimer's disease increases with age, with most people developing it after age 65. One in 13 people aged between 65 and 84, and one in three people above 85 years have Alzheimer's. However, Alzheimer's is not a normal part of ageing, and older age alone is not enough to cause it.

Filmmaker Miriam Chandy Menacherry, who recently won the National Award for her documentary From the Shadows, discusses her collaboration with Bengaluru's India Foundation for the Arts to uncover the contributions of women in Malayalam cinema

POOJA DAS

THE Hema Committee Report, which has stirred film industries across India over the past four weeks, was originally submitted in December 2019 — almost four-and-a-half years ago. While the report and the women involved slipped from public attention, documentary filmmaker Miriam Chandy Menacherry remained committed to amplifying the 'hidden voices' of women in the Malayalam film industry who took a stand by forming the Women in Cinema Collective (WCC). "In 2017, when the actors' assault case in Kerala emerged and the names of those involved were revealed, it sent shockwaves. Although I'm based in Mumbai, as a Malayali, I felt the significance when these women united to ensure the survivor received a fair hearing," says Menacherry, who received a grant from Bengaluru's India Foundation for the Arts (IFA) in 2020 to document the 'vivid and contrasting accounts of the Women in Cinema Collective.'

Menacherry, who grew up watching Malayalam cinema, reflects, "I felt this was a strong coalition of women set to make a lasting impact, and the ripple effects of their actions would extend beyond Kerala, across India – the world's largest film-producing nation." She explains that what drew her to the stories of women like Bina Paul (film editor), Anjali Menon (film director and screenwriter), and others involved in WCC was her personal experience as a filmmaker. "It's never easy for a woman in this field. Each journey is unique in how one navigates this space, and I wanted to hear their stories." She emphasises that each member of the WCC plays a distinct role in the industry, as a screenwriter, editor, cinematographer, or director. "Cinema is a complex, collaborative art form, relying on a blend of talents. These women have dedicated years to not only creating great cinema but also establishing spaces for others like me to follow," says Menacherry, who recently won the National Film Award for From the Shadows.

She describes the IFA project as an extensive 'archival project,' revealing, "I've collected images of these women at work and interviewed them to understand their journeys." The project will culminate in a book accompanying these images, but she also envisions it taking on multiple forms in the public domain. Menacherry has also secured a Fulbright Fellowship to further her research, exploring the WCC's impact across India and drawing parallels with movements in Hollywood. "WCC took a stand even before the #MeToo movement, so their work is pioneering in terms of gender in cinema," she adds.

Menacherry's recent success with From the Shadows, a documentary about human trafficking in India, reflects her commitment to telling important stories. "We all know about trafficking, but it often feels distant – like it's happening to someone else. When I saw the shadow of a girl on walls across Kolkata, Mumbai, and Bengaluru, alongside the #Missing campaign, it was eerie. It said that every eight minutes, a girl goes missing which means that it's happening before our eyes and we are blind to it," she adds.

One of the biggest challenges Menacherry faced was navigating the laws around representing survivors. "The filmmaking process took four years, and then the pandemic delayed us by another two. I never imagined it would win an award; I was simply focused on keeping the project alive. At one point, the girl I was documenting told me I couldn't show her face as her verdict was still pending, which meant re-editing everything," she says. "Fortunately, I found residencies that allowed me to step back and reflect. Without them, I might have given up. In fact, the thought of quitting crossed my mind at least four times," she shares.

GOAL ORIENTED

From overcoming the challenge of playing a man down to securing a second consecutive bronze, Indian men's hockey stars Vivek Sagar Prasad and Hardik Singh recount to CE the team's highs and heartbreaks at the 2024 Paris Olympics, and their aspirations for the future

DESE GOWDA

WHEN the Indian men's hockey team stepped onto the field at the 2024 Paris Olympics, they carried the weight of a nation's hopes and the responsibility of a century-old legacy. Though the golden era of Indian hockey, from the late 1920s to the mid-1950s, has long passed, recent years have seen concerted efforts to rebuild and reclaim past glories. After ending a four-decade medal drought with a bronze in Tokyo, the team – which regularly trains in Bengaluru – though unable to surpass that achievement, equalled it in Paris, marking their steady progress.

The squad's journey was fraught with challenges and intense moments, none more so than the quarter-final against Great Britain, which pushed the team to its limits. Midfielder Hardik Singh, one of the standout performers, encapsulates the team's spirit throughout the tournament. "After Amit [Rohidas] received a red card, we played with a man down for about 40 minutes. It was a true test of our spirit," he reflects. For the uninitiated, playing a man down in a sport as fast-paced and physically demanding as hockey is a monumental challenge, one that can often lead to disaster. Yet the team defied the odds. "We put everything on the line. We ran, jumped, scrambled for every ball, and if one of us faltered, a teammate was there to cover," Singh adds.

Vivek Sagar Prasad, a key figure in the midfield, echoes this sentiment. "The forwards pressed every pass, the midfielders filled every gap, the defenders blocked every shot, and if anything got through, Sreejesh [the goalkeeper] was there." PR Sreejesh, the veteran goalkeeper whose penalty shootout heroics have cemented his place in Indian hockey history, announced his retirement after the Olympics. "Sreejesh is the embodiment of patience," Singh says, adding, "His professionalism throughout his career is immense, and we all strive to emulate him."

The road to their bronze medal was not without its setbacks. After an impressive group stage, where the team defeated teams from New Zealand, Ireland and Australia, hopes soared for a gold-medal finish. However, in the semi-finals, Germany outplayed them, dashing those dreams. It would have been easy to lose heart, but the team regrouped for the bronze-medal match against Spain. "We were determined to come back with a medal," Singh recalls. "The game against Spain had my heart racing. It was such a relief when the final whistle blew, and we knew we had secured the bronze."

Off the field, both players credit their mental preparation for their success. The pressure of representing India at the Olympics can be overwhelming, especially in a sport where expectations run so high. To manage this, the team made a conscious decision to minimise distractions, particularly by avoiding social media during the tournament. "Expectations were high from both fans and ourselves," Singh explains. "But staying off social media in Paris helped us remain focused and grounded."

For the team, this victory was more than a personal triumph; it was a tribute to India's rich hockey heritage. India once dominated the sport, winning eight Olympic gold medals, beginning in 1928. However, with advancements in sports technology and training techniques, the country was left behind. Yet, the recent triumphs are seen as stepping stones. "There's always room for improvement," says Singh. "Penalty corner defences have become stronger, so we need more variations in our routines." Prasad highlights the need for more field goals, which come from open play rather than penalty corners or set pieces. "Teams have figured out how to defend against drag flicks, so improving our field goal scoring is crucial," he adds.

For the Los Angeles 2028 Olympics, four years away, the squad already has its sights firmly set on gold.

DEAR LIFE

Preeti Shenoy

Novelist, Illustrator, Speaker.

I feel jealous of my husband's ex-girlfriend. He shared about his past before our marriage, but I obsessively check her social media and feel inferior, since she's working and I'm a homemaker. How can I stop this?

It's great your husband was honest about his past relationship, showing transparency. It's normal to compare ourselves, especially to someone who once had our partner's affection. But remember — he chose you. Constantly stalking her and feeling inferior brings a ghost from the past into your present relationship. First, unfollow and block her. List your positive qualities. Ask your husband what he loves about you, and you'll realise he values you for who you are. Reflect on why you feel working women are better than housewives – both roles have their challenges. If needed, explore ways to earn income, perhaps through your hobbies. This might give you a confidence boost. Keep busy. Focus on self-improvement –read more, engage in meaningful conversations, and spend time with your husband. As you grow in confidence and deepen your connection, the jealousy will fade away.

PARSVA BADDHA KONASANA UTTANASANA (BOUND ANGLE POSE FORWARD BEND SIDE)

This is a surrendering and twisting variation of the traditional Hatha Yoga pose, Baddha Konasana (Bound Angle Pose). It can be a warm-up pose to wake up the spine for deeper forward folds and side-bending poses. It is a good cool-down and restorative stretch after intense backbends or advanced flows. This promotes lengthening of the spine, improving overall posture and relieving lower back discomfort.

STEPS

- Sit in Dandasana, with the spine straight. Take a few breaths.
- Bend your knees, join the soles of your feet.
- Inhale, hold your ankles with your palms, moving the heels toward the groin as much as you can.
- Exhale, allow your knees to fall to the sides.
- Stay in Baddha Konasana for a few breaths.
- Inhale, lift your chest upwards to prepare for the forward-side stretch.
- Exhale, bend forwards, sliding the hands to front. Avoid rounding the spine. Instead, imagine leading with your heart and reaching forward in Baddha Konasana Uttanasana. Rest your head on the ground and stay here for a breath or two.
- Move forward, side stretch, inhale, look up. Exhale, walk both hands sideways toward the left knee along your chest.
- Rest the forehead on the ground. Stretch the body towards the right keeping arms straight and parallel to each other.
- Engage your core muscles, keep your shoulders relaxed and remain grounded.
- Remain here for six breaths or as per the body's capacity. Take slow, deep breaths.
- To release, inhale and crawl your hands along the chest and head back to the center. Stay in Baddha Konasana Uttanasana for a while.
- Counter the lateral stretch on the other side (left), following the above instructions.
- Return to Dandasana and relax in Staff Pose Hands Back Knees Bent.

LIMITATIONS

- Students who have had recent injuries or surgeries to the core, pelvis, knees, hips, and lower back, internal surgeries at kidneys, stomach, or any part of the abdominal area, history of fibromyalgia, arthritis, or pain in the joints and bones, suffering from sciatica, during menstruation, avoid this pose.
- Students with issues related to vertigo, low or high blood pressure, insomnia, back pain, hernia must take care.

BENEFITS

- Lengthens the spine.
- Releases tension from the neck, arms, shoulder, and back.
- Improves flexibility, strength, and mobility in the hips, inner thighs, lower back.
- Stretches and strengthens the back,chest, and muscles like rhomboids, trapezius, latissimus dorsi, serratus anterior, and external obliques.
- Aids with relieving back pain or discomfort from a sedentary lifestyle.
- Helps in dealing with scoliosis and the effects of poor posture.
- Included in yoga sequences for kids, teens, or working professionals.
- Consistent practice until late into pregnancy helps ease childbirth.
- Improves blood circulation and spinal mobility.
- Detoxifies the body, strengthens the muscles.
- Calms the mind and relieves headaches.
- Helps stimulate the reproductive and digestive organs.
- Stimulates the Svadisthana Chakra, promoting focus and productivity.
- Help in curing menstruation problems.
- Soothes sciatica pain.
- Helps reduce body weight.

Shadowgraphy artist Amar Sen will be weaving his magic in the city this weekend

MONIKA MONALISA

ALL you need to create a story and its characters is the shadow of your hands. That's the magic of shadowgraphy, a performance that carries an air of mysticism. Veteran shadowgraphy artist Amar Sen, who has practised this art for over four decades, will be bringing his talents to the city this weekend. Organised by Gems Kid Club, the event will feature a storytelling session accompanied by a visual spectacle.

Sen's journey with shadowgraphy began in the 1960s. Although introduced to the world of magic as a child, his fascination with shadowgraphy took hold a few years later, during a power cut. "My friend Sabyasachi and I were studying when the electricity went out. We lit a candle, and he began making the shadow of a duck while I made the quacking sound as its beak moved. It was like a little cinema. That's where it started, and we never stopped. I began learning more from books," says Sen, now 73, who was honoured by the President of India in 2020 for his efforts to preserve this fading art.

Sen's passion for hand shadowgraphy did not go unnoticed by those close to him, and when asked if he wanted to pursue it professionally, he gave it serious thought. "I was clear that if I was going to do this professionally, it had to be something fresh–something people hadn't already seen. It needed to be creatively challenging," says Sen, who is also the president of the Federation of Indian Magic Associates, based in Kolkata.

Despite his enthusiasm, making shadowgraphy a career wasn't easy, as it wasn't financially viable. "I lost my father when I was 23 and had to support my mother. I took up several art-related jobs, including painting greeting cards, which was popular at the time," he recalls. His longest stint was with the Royal Calcutta Turf Club, and it wasn't until he was 38 that he had his first professional show.

As times have changed, Sen has recognised the need to evolve with them. "I understand it's a fast-paced world, and technology is advancing rapidly. But I've noticed that people, regardless of age or background, still love magic. I've had audiences of all ages, and their expectations have grown. I've had to adapt too – the current recording I use for my show is my ninth version," Sen says, as he looks forward to performing for Bengaluru viewers.

Amar Sen's shadowplay will be held on September 15 at the MLR Convention Centre, Whitefield

SWEETGASMIC

Onam isn't complete without payasam. This year, innovative twists on traditional payasam are emerging, adding fresh flavours to this classic treat

NEY PAYASAM

Ingredients

Matta raw rice: 1 cup
Coconut mylk(optional): 1/2 cup
Grated jaggery: 1 cup
Cardamom powder: 1/2tbsp
Ghee: 3-4tbsp
Dry fruits as per choice
Finely-chopped coconut

Method

Add 1.5 cup water and pressure cook rice for 3 to 4 whistles. After the cooker is depressurised, mash the rice gently. Take a pan to prepare the jaggery syrup. Add water and brown jaggery into the pan and cook till it melts. To this add the cooked rice and mix well for 5 minutes. Add 1/2 cup of ghee and cardamom powder. Let it cook for 5-7 minutes. Turn off the gas and add coconut mylk(optional). Heat a pan, add ghee and roast dry fruits and chopped coconuts. Add this to the rice mixture, mix it well and it's ready to serve. Garnish with some banana slices.

TENDER COCONUT CARROT PAYASAM

Ingredients

Cow milk : 1 ltr, Water: 1 ltr
Shredded carrot(small size) : 100 g
Sugar: 200g
Tender coconut water: 500 ml
Tender coconut flesh (sliced): 300g
Ghee : 80 ml
Fried cashew nuts: 20g
Fried raisins: a few grams
Cardamom powder: 2g

For garnish

Sliced almonds, Mint leaves
Chethi poovu

Method

On low heat, boil the milk with water for 30 minutes. Once the milk gets thick and when there is a colour change, add the tender coconut water, sugar, carrot and tender coconut flesh. Again cook for five to 10 minutes in slow heat. Turn off the flame and finish with cardamom powder, fried raisins and cashew nuts. Garnish and serve in room temperature.

SUGAR-FREE SEMIYA PAYASAM

Ingredients (for 3 glasses)

Milk: 500 ml
Vermicelli: 100 g, Ghee: 15 g
Zeugar Sugar free Cooking Syrup: 75 g
Cashew: 10 g
Cardamom: A pinch for taste

Method

Roast the vermicelli in ghee till it turns brown. Add milk and sugar-free syrup to the same vessel and boil for 8-10 minutes till it reaches payasam consistency. Add the cashews (roasting it is optional) and cardamom. Serve hot and enjoy the delicious Vermicelli Payasam, without any added sugars.

Recipe by Zeugar Sugar-free

Beetroot-banana blossom payasam

Ingredients

Beetroot(chopped) : 200g
Banana blossom (Chopped): 500g
Sugar: 300g
Cow milk : 2ltr
Fried cashew nuts: 15g
Fried raisins: 15g
Cardamom powder: 2g
Ghee : 80 ml

Method

Soak the chopped banana blossoms in water for half an hour. After that, squeeze the water out of it and keep it aside. Heat ghee in a uruli and saute the chopped beetroot in it for two minutes. Add banana blossoms and sugar and then cook for five minutes on medium heat. Add milk and mix well. Cook the payasam on low flame for 30 minutes. Once the milk starts to thicken, turn off the flame and finish with fried cashew nuts, raisins and cardamom powder. Mix well and garnish with finely chopped beetroot

Recipe by chef Arun Vijayan

AVIL PAYASAM

Method

Heat the pan on a medium-low flame and add 100 grams of ghee. When the ghee melts, add the cashews and raisins and fry them until golden. Remove it and keep it aside. In the same pan, once the ghee has melted, add avil, stir, and mix the avil well in the ghee. Roast till the avil changes its colour to a light golden colour. Then add the milk and saffron. Keep the heat on low and bring the mix to a boil for three minutes. Then add the sugar and cardamom powder and mix very well so that the sugar dissolves. Continue to simmer the avil payasam for three to five minutes. Switch off the flame. Add the roasted cashews and raisins to the payasam. Serve hot.

Ingredients

Avil: 300g
Milk: 1.5ltr
Saffron: 1g
Ghee: 250g
Raisins: 20g
Cashew: 50g
Cardamom powder: 10g

‘My journey from being an assistant director to headlining my own film has been incredible’

CE FEATURES

SHIVARAJKUMAR recently unveiled the trailer for Kaalapatthar directed by and tarring Vikky Varun. Describing the trailer as impressive and expressing his confidence in the film’s potential, Shivarajkumar further comments, “The film shows promising signs and has strong content. Films like these help new talents find their place in the industry.”

Produced by Nagaraju Billinakote and Bhuvan Suresh under the Bhuvan Movies banner, Kaalapatthar tells the story of a soldier’s struggles in a rural setting, where a stone statue honours his contributions. The narrative blends themes of love, conflict, and action.

Reflecting on his journey, Vikky Varun, who was an assistant director under Suri of Duniya fame, shared his excitement about Shivarajkumar launching his directorial debut. “It’s been fifteen years since I entered the Kannada film industry, and nine years since the release of Kendasampige, where I played the lead role under Suri’s direction. I am truly delighted that Kaalapatthar will mark my directorial debut which also sees me as lead. The journey from being an assistant director to headlining my own film has been incredible,” says Vikky Varun.

Written by Satya Prakash, Kaalapatthar blends science fiction with illusion, centering around a mysterious black stone. The film was primarily shot in Jainapur, a village that was later submerged, as well as in the picturesque landscapes of Kashmir and Rajasthan. Vikky Varun fondly reminisces about his time working with the legendary Shivarajkumar, expressing his gratitude for the veteran actor’s support and guidance throughout the project. “I never intended to become an actor; my goal was always to be a director. During the making of Kaddipudi, I had the unforgettable experience of interacting with Shivrajkumar and acting alongside him. Today, I am even more thrilled that Shivarajkumar has launched the trailer of my directorial debut, ahead of its release on September 13,” Vikky Varun adds.

Dhanya Ramkumar, who plays the female lead in Kaalapatthar, expresses her gratitude for Shivarajkumar’s involvement. “Having Shivanna uncle release the trailer has been a blessing for us. It was wonderful that Vinay Rajkumar also attended the event. My family has been incredibly supportive throughout this journey. In this film, I take on a role that is quite different from my previous ones. I play a teacher named Ganga, and I am excited for audiences to see this new side of me,” says Dhanya Ramkumar.

The cast includes Achyuth Kumar, Nagabharana, Sampath, and others in supporting roles. The film has music composed by Anoop Seelin and cinematography by Sandeep Kumar.

DAIJI IS A PSYCHOLOGICAL HORROR THRILLER BASED ON A REAL INCIDENT

The makers, who are set to begin shooting in a foreign location, unveil a new look poster of Ramesh Aravind

A SHARADHAA

PREVIOUSLY, we reported that Ramesh Arvind's 106th film has been titled Daiji, and will be directed by Akash Srivatsa. With plans to shoot crucial portions abroad, the makers of the film have now finalised Canada as the location. The film is set to go on floors soon.

Daiji film marks the third collaboration between Ramesh and Akash, following Shivaji Surathkal 1 and 2. The makers of the psychological horror thriller have unveiled a new look poster of Ramesh Aravind from the film on the occasion of the actor's birthday.

In conversation with CE, Akash revealed that Daiji is based on a real incident that happened to producer Ravi Kashyap. He also provided an update on the film's progress, mentioning that like his previous film Shivaji Surathkal, Daiji is also expected to become a franchise.

Ramesh Aravind, known for his diverse film roles, has expressed his interest in exploring different genres. He discussed how Daiji, a horror film, explores the fear of the supernatural—something he believes is a common fear among people. The film delves into how an ordinary person or family man reacts to supernatural elements. Ramesh, with his previous experiences in horror films like Apathamitra and the upcoming Bhairadevi, is eager to take on the challenge of playing a possessed character.

The film, produced under the Vibha Kashyap Productions banner, features cinematography by Anup J Kat. The makers are still finalising the technicians and the rest of the cast, including the female lead.

> Daiji will follow in the footsteps of my previous film Shivaji Surathkal and will go on to become a franchise

Shivakumar M Shettahalli to make directorial debut with Survey Number 45

A still from the film

SHIVAKUMAR M Shettahalli, who has previously written lyrics for many devotional songs, is making his directorial debut with Survey Number 45. He has taken on multiple roles in the film, including screenplay writer and lyricist for three songs.

The filming for Survey Number 45 is currently underway. Planned to be shot in locations like Mysore, Hassan, and Mandya the film is set in a rural area where government-assigned agricultural land, identified with its survey number, serves as the backdrop for a farmer facing various challenges. The film blends real-life struggles with imaginative elements, illustrating how the right choices lead to success, while poor decisions result in trouble. It carries a clear message: “Choose goodness and it will come; choose wrong, and misfortune follows.”

Produced by the Varanadi Cine banner, the film stars Comedy Kiladigalu actor Santosh and Reeya Bhaskar Gowda in lead roles. Muni, Jagadish Koppa, Sanjay Patil, Maithri, Prakash Banalu, Teju Mysore, Suresh Kolar, and Rangaraju Hulidurga round out the film's supporting cast. The technical crew of Survey Number 45 comprises dialogue writer Chakri Kirisave, music composer Vishal Alap, and cinematographer Deepak Kumar.

Firefly to revolve around Vicky’s melancholic quest

CE FEATURES

FIREFLY, produced by Niveditha Shivarajkumar, daughter of Shivarajkumar, features Vamshi stepping into the limelight as the lead actor and the film’s director, marking a notable debut. The film recently wrapped filming and is currently in post-production. The makers unveiled the film's teaser on Monday. This teaser offers a glimpse into the life of Vicky, an unconventional character who is an award-winning math teacher with a life meticulously divided into schedules. As the story unfolds, we follow Vicky’s journey as he strives to overcome his loneliness and find his place in the world. The teaser hints at a film that is quirky, entertaining, and emotionally engaging, with a narrative that delves into both humour and melancholy.

The teaser showcases strong production values and technical excellence. The vibrant colour palette, creative framing, music, and innovative staging all contribute to its visual appeal, perfectly setting the tone for the unfolding narrative. The cast of Firefly includes familiar faces such as Rachana Inder, Achyut Kumar, Sudharani, Sheetal Shetty, Moogu Suresh, Chitkala Biradar, and Sihi Kahi Chandru, among others.

The film's technical crew comprises Abhilash Kalathi as DOP, Varadaraj Kamath as art director, Raghu Niduvalli as the dialogue writer, Charan Raj as music composer, and Suresh Arumugam as editor. The film is aiming for a Deepavali release.
